Reds Capture Besieged Tarnopol

LONDON, April 15.—(AP)—Tarnopol, stubborn German bastion which has held out for weeks against the Russians in south-eastern Poland, has been captured by the Red army, Premier Stalin announced in an order of the day.

The German "hinge" position 75 miles southeast of Lwow had held out although encircled since March 23. Its capture frees the Russian forces in that area for concentrated drives either on the Hungarian border or the supply and transport centre of Lwow.

The order of the day, addressed to Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov of the First Ukrainian Army, ordered a Moscow salute of 20 salvoes from 224 guns.

As Premier Stalin announced the latest Soviet triumph in a broadcast from Moscow, other Red armies smashed on toward Sevastopol and, with one spearhead only 18 miles from that naval base, rolled the shattered remnants of the Axis Crimean army back against the Black Sea.

STREET FIGHTING

Tarnopol had been the scene of street fighting since March 9 when Soviet troops first entered the outskirts, and weeks ago Soviet lines had advanced as far as 14 miles west of the important junction.

In the battle the Germans had dipped heavily into their reserves to hold this "Cassino" of the eastern front and in effort to drive a relief column into the town.

But although the battle was cost-

City, B.C. Pilots Score Victories

Edmonton Squadron's Blazing Hot Pace Maintained as Intruders Bag 7 Planes

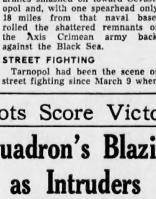

AN R.C.A.F. FIGHTER BASE IN ENGLAND, April 15.—(CP)—Sqdn. Ldr. R. Kipp of Kamloops, B.C., and FO. J. T. Caine, Edmonton, kept up the blazing hot pace of the City of Edmonton Mosquito Squadron yesterday, destroying four enemy aircraft in the air and leaving three others aflame on the ground in an intruder patrol of more than 1,000 miles to Copenhagen and back.

In addition two German aircraft were damaged on the ground as the squadron's score in its personal scrap to whittle the Luftwaffe to invasion size rose to 13 destroyed, three probables and seven damaged in the last six days.

THREE PLANES SIGHTED

The Canadian aces sighted the first three enemy planes just above the waters of the Kattegat, near Copenhagen, with the fourth some distance ahead. Kipp tore into three—all JU52 transports—while Caine raced ahead to take care of the straggler. A few bursts sent it into the sea.

Kipp meanwhile had bagged one of the trio he was attacking.

FO. J. T. CAINE

Caine blasted another out of the sky as he came back to help, but the fourth German didn't wait for Kipp to attack but crash-landed and sank in the sea.

FIVE ON AIRFIELD

The Canadians then found five planes on the Kastrupe airfield near Copenhagen and Kipp set two DP217's afire while Caine fired a HE111. For good measure they damaged a DO217 and a JU52 between them.

On the long run home the two Mosquitoes ran the gauntlet of heavy ackack and near the enemy coast two FW190's gave chase, but the 400-miles-an-hour Mosquitoes, now empty of ammunition, outdistanced them.

Caine's navigator was PO. Earl Boal, Regina, Sask.

"WAS A BIT SHAKY"

"It was a bit shaky," Kipp said. "Pete first sighted the two enemy fighters on the way home. We gave the Mossies the gun and went full out. Pete kept up a running commentary on the chase and the Spitfires were unable to get closer than 800 yards.

"It really was funny to see them, realizing they couldn't catch us, nosing their aircraft up every now and then to lob shots, trying to get hits. They might as well have saved their ammunition."

Morey Rimstad Reports to Board

FORT SHERIDAN, Ill., April 15.—(AP)—Roy M. (Morey) Rimstad, a Canadian subject who played centre on the Buffalo American Hockey League championship club, left Fort Sheridan today to report to a local draft board in Detroit, army officers said.

Rimstad, registered in Edmonton, was ordered to report for induction Wednesday by Detroit Local Board 23. He left Buffalo Monday to discuss his status with the Detroit board but he was inducted in the meantime and wound up at Fort Sheridan.

Regis O'Brien, attorney for the Buffalo club, questioned Rimstad's induction, asserting that it was his understanding the hockey player had never registered for U.S. selective service and had been ordered to report April 3 to his Canadian board.

Artillery Is Active On Canadian Front

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, April 15—(CP)—Hours-long German artillery fire along the Ortona-Orsogna road near the Adriatic sector of the 8th Army front and normal harassing fire from Canadian guns broke over the heads of Canadian infantrymen holding front-line positions or probing near those of the enemy Thursday night.

Guns and mortars sporadically and infrequently shelled the enemy lines.

During Thursday night an Ontario regiment beat off enemy patrols and westerners did the same to Germans who neared their positions early Friday morning, killing or wounding some of the enemy.

For the first time in a long while the troops are coming to appreciate the phrase sunny Italy. Hardly a cloud has marred the sky for days and sun is warm and bright.

"I am firmly convinced that the German Wehrmacht will not allow us to accelerate the final victory of our three nations," Tojo was represented as saying.

"We shall frustrate every attempt made by the enemy to divide us," Tojo said, according to the broadcast. "Although we are fighting separately in the east and west we shall still further deepen our cooperation, and fight the common enemy with united forces."

Commission Drafts Plan To Govern Post-War Reich

By JOHN A. PARRIS

LONDON, April 15.—Allied advisory commission plans for governing Germany under the post-war armistice were understood today to call for British occupation of northwest Germany and the taking over of most of the southwest, including Bavaria, Wurttemburg and Saxony, by the United States. The Russian sphere would include German territory west to the Oder river.

All three powers would participate in the occupation of Berlin, reliable reports of the planning by the advisory commission said. The Rhineland would come under the joint occupation of British and the United States.

The framework of a strict Anglo-American-Russian military government for Germany after the defeat of the Nazis was understood to be almost complete after each of the big three had submitted proposals calculated to give the Allied high command unprecedented authority over Europe.

The British proposals were understood to have suggested that the Americans occupy Austria, but Russia was said to have favored a three-way occupation.

The first suggestions to the advisory committee from Russia, Britain and the United States were submitted about a month ago.

The first drafts of the British and Russian suggestions were understood to have been made, followed within a few days by those from the United States.

Heavy Action

British, Indians Fight Japs Outside Imphal

NEW DELHI, April 15.—British and Indian troops engaged Japanese forces in the hills north and northeast of the Imphal Plain today in an attempt to stop the enemy drive which has carried to within 10 miles of Imphal, capital of India's Manipur state.

The Japanese were reported suffering heavy losses in the fighting around Imphal, where they were attacking from three sides in an effort to isolate British and Indian veterans in the town.

The enemy forces appeared to be making the most determined drive from the northeast, where they had set up positions on Pungshigun peak, 10 miles from Imphal.

An Allied communique said there was no important activity south or east of the Imphal plain, the scene of two other Japanese thrusts toward the capital.

The communique acknowledged that small enemy parties remained in the area of Bishenpur-Silchar trail indicating that Allied troops were holding their own against renewed Japanese assaults on the jungle track leading west from the Imphal plain and only remaining land connection between Imphal and inland Indian bases.

The enemy troops were believed attacking just west of Bishenpur, about 70 air miles east of Silchar, terminus of a spur from the southern branch of the Bengal-Assam railway.

LONDON, April 15.—A force of at least 500 American heavy bombers based in Italy, striking in support of the Russian armies invading Romania, blasted the important rail and communications centres of Bucharest and Ploesti today, and German fighter planes rose to challenge them.

The German radio, broadcasting reports that Allied planes were approaching northwest Germany, indicated there might be a pincers attack on the Reich from Britain and Italy.

Strong formations of Lightning and Thunderbolt fighter planes escorted the Italy-based Fortresses and Liberators on the Romanian raid and shot down some of the German planes which gave battle.

The Liberators hit Bucharest while the Fortresses concentrated on the Ploesti area, which in addition to being an important communications city is the source of much of the oil used by the German war machine.

It was the first time fighter escorts had gone all the way to Bucharest with the heavy bmobers.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, April 15. — Jungle - hardened Australian troops were driving toward the major Japanese air and naval supply port of Madang on the northern New Guinea coast today, after capturing its protective base of Bogadjim, 16 miles to the south.

The Australians, striking through the Mintjin valley, occupied Bogadjim without opposition Thursday afternoon and captured equipment abandoned by the Japanese as they fled in small groups into the surrounding area.

While the Australian troops were effecting the occupation to complete a seven-month drive across the Huon-peninsula to Astrolabe Bay, patrols began thrusting toward Madang and a communique reported them in the area north of Bogadjim.

Liberators again blasted the Wewak area, 200 miles north of Madang, dripping 250 tons of explosives which destroyed 60 buildings and left fires visible for 40 miles.

Judge Eliminated As Defendant in Joan Berry Case

LOS ANGELES, April 15.—(AP)—Police Judge Charles Griffin of Beverly Hills was eliminated yesterday as a defendant in federal indictments accusing him and six others, including comedian Charles Chaplin, of conspiring to violate the civil rights of 24-year-old Joan Berry.

Judge J. F. T. O'Connor sustained Judge Griffin's plea in bar contending the federal court has no jurisdiction over his official acts.

The conspiracy indictments allege the defendants forced Miss Berry to leave Beverly Hills in January, 1943, following her arrest on a vagrancy charge subsequently dismissed. She was given probation on condition she remain away from Beverly Hills.

Rail Travel Cut

Plane Service To Eire Banned

By JAMES McGLINCY
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1944, by British United Press

LONDON, April 15.—Airplane service between Dublin and Liverpool was suspended today and Eire ordered a drastic reduction in its rail transport as a result of a British decision to halt coal exports. The sharpened policy of cracking down on neutrals which might give direct or indirect support to the Axis was closing in fast on Eire.

Rail services linking Dublin with provincial centres were cut to the bone. Authorities reported that main line passenger service would be reduced to two days a week and freight trains would operate only four days a week beginning April 24. Eleven branch lines of the Great Southern railway were to be closed completely.

Eire was the first of the European neutrals to feel the pinch of economic pressure which Secretary of State Cordell Hull announced Sunday would be applied. Early in March Dublin rejected an American request to close the German and Japanese legations on grounds that their functioning jeopardized the military security of forces in

Announcement of the completion of the treaty was made last night by Prime Minister Mackenzie King. It provides that not later than six months after the cessation of hostilities the two governments will enter into "a comprehensive modern treaty of friendship, commerce, navigation and consular rights."

The treaty completed yesterday was signed by Mr. King and by Dr. Liu Shih Shun, Chinese ambassador to Canada. In its terms it is similar to the British extra-territorial treaty concluded on behalf of the United Kingdom, Northern Ireland and India Jan. 11, 1943, and the United States treaty with China concluded on the same date.

FIRST FORMAL TREATY

The first formal treaty ever signed by Canada with China, it provides that all international agreements which authorize any British or Canadian authority to exercise jurisdiction in China over Canadian nationals are abrogated.

The Canadian government agrees to co-operate with the Chinese government in arrangements, so far as Canadian interests are concerned, for the abandonment by foreign governments of special privileges held by them in Peiping, Shanghai, Amoy, Tientsin and Canton.

The relinquishment of extra-territorial rights does not affect existing real property rights of Canadian nationals. It is agreed that Canadian property in China will be subject to Chinese laws concerning taxation and national defence.

MAY NOT BE ALIENATED

Real property held by Canadians in China may not be alienated to the government or nations of a third country without the consent of the Chinese government. If the right to transfer is to be granted the Chinese government has agreed to take over the property and pay adequate compensation.

Canadian nationals in China are to be accorded the right to travel, reside and carry on trade in China. Each country is to try to accord to nationals of the other treatment not less favorable than that enjoyed by its own nationals in legal proceedings, the administration of justice and the levying of taxes.

Consular officers of each country are to have the right to intervene and communicate with their own nationals and are to be informed whenever any of their nationals are arrested and may visit them and receive communications from them.

The treaty will come into effect when ratifications are exchanged at Chungking. It will be tabled in the commons by the prime minister at an early date.

ANOTHER FORWARD STEP

Dr. Liu, in a statement issued after signing the treaty, said it marked "another step forward in our happy relations."

"As the first formal treaty ever signed by Canada with China it will be read by the Chinese people with acclaim," he said.

The abolition of extra-territorial rights ended a century of "unequal treaties" between China and the majority of the other powers.

"It is significant that the signing of the new treaty has followed very closely the conclusion of the mutual aid agreement between Canada and China on March 22," the ambassador said. "The tremendous assistance extended to China by Canada, both before and after the enactment of the mutual aid law, has meant a great deal to the war effort being put forth by the Chinese people."

Co-operation between Canada and China would be facilitated considerably with the completion of the post-war treaty for which provision was made in the document completed today, he added.

Dead Flier Kept Six-Month Vigil And Warned of Jap Air Attacks

SYDNEY, April 15.—(CP)—Exactly a year after his death in a plane crash, it was revealed yesterday how Flt.-Lt. Lee Vial of Melbourne kept a six-month vigil in 1942 from a hilltop behind the Japanese-held town of Salamaua in New Guinea and warned of Japanese air attacks.

Throughout his long watch, Vial reported every move of the Japanese radio to the Allied defenders of Port Moresby, 200 miles away on the other side of New Guinea.

At that time Port Moresby was the heaviest bombed Allied base in the Southwest Pacific, but Vial was able to tell its defenders whenever a raid was imminent.

They never saw him but called him "Vial of the Golden Voice." His observation post was a tall tree in which he sat for hours starring through binoculars. Twice this caused him to go blind.

His camp was always damp and leech infested, and his food was scarce and monotonous. Sick and hungry he was often hunted by the Japanese, but their patrols never found him.

Vial's vigil ended only when he became too ill to carry on. He walked to Wau, 25 miles away, and was then flown to Port Moresby.

MOSCOW, April 15.—The final battle of the Red Army's Crimean campaign shifted to Sevastopol today when Russian assault forces crashed through strong Axis rear guard screens in the hills before the historic city. (The London Evening Star reported in its first edition today that the Russians were within 10 miles of Sevastopol and in its second that they were in sight of the city.)

The week after it began, the battle of the Crimea was reported nearing its end in a merciless slaughter of the retreat surrounded of about 100,000 troops now corraled in a 50-square mile bridgehead anchored on Sevastopol.

The ancient city of epic seiges was reported jammed with rag-tag survivors of the Axis armies in mad flight from the pursuing Russians who were milling about in desperate efforts to board frail craft for a gamble on a flight by sea.

POUND AT SHIPS

Red Air Force assault planes pounded the evacuation craft mercilessly and torpedo launches of the Black Sea fleet darted in and out of the coastal water's torpedoing vessels loaded with enemy troops.

As the Soviet arc of steel closed against Sevastopol, tanks in the vanguard were reported plowing into fleeing Axis bands, crushing hundreds of men under their treads and spraying those out in front with machine gun fire.

All the roads and villages to the south coast were reported strewn with the dead of the occupation garrison, and big stores of supplies and equipment were abandoned by the enemy in headlong flight.

GUERILLAS ACTIVE

Guerilla detachments hidden for two years in the Crimean hills emerged to strike telling blows at the Germans and Rumanians, cutting their lines of retreat and attacking isolated garrisons.

Unshaven, ragged and tattered German and Romanian soldiers, their escape cut off by the lightning Russian advance, surrendered en masse as the Soviet re-conquest of the 10,000 square mile Crimea entered its final phase a week after it began.

More than 31,000 prisoners had been rounded up by Thursday, and almost as many enemy troops had been slain by two Red armies that smashed simultaneously into the Crimea from the north and east last week-end.

A 2,000-ton transport, several smaller ships and three self-propelled landing barges loaded with infantry were sunk by planes, while a large enemy transport was set afire and five self-propelled landing barges and a mine-laying ship were damaged severely.

SMASH ESCAPE ATTEMPTS

"Sailors and airmen are frustrating all enemy attempts to save at least some part of his army in the crimea, which is doomed to death," the Soviet high command announced in its midnight communique.

Gen. Feodor I. Tolbukhin's 4th Ukrainian Army and Gen. Andrei Yeremenko's independent maritime army liberated more than 507 towns and villages yesterday in advances of up to 53 miles, the greatest ever-achieved by Soviet forces.

Tolbukhin's main column, racing down the first-class highway paralleling the Simferopol-Sevastopol railway, seized Bakhchisarai, ancient Tartar capital 18 miles north-east of Sevastopol, and pushed on toward the naval base.

most talented young army commanders who had developed during this war."

Vatutin, in his early 40's, was a short, thick-set man, with his broad head set so close to his shoulders that his troops called him "the man without a neck."

His rise was one of the most rapid of all Russian commanders. He first got into the news last year in the campaign on the upper Don and took command of the 1st Ukrainian Army last September.

Besides his reconquest of Kiev last November, Vatutin was co-captor of Kharkov last Aug. 8. His other victories included Belgorod, Zhitomir and Voroshilovgrad, and his troops were the first to enter Rovno province in pre-war Poland.

Russians honored him most, however, for the liberation of Kiev, which involved building 50 bridges across the Dnepr River under concentrated German fire, then scaling the heights on which the city stands.

The bodies of the trappers were found frozen into the ice of the Finlay river in northern British Columbia early in March. The men died late in February.

Job Rationing Following War Is Advocated

PHILADELPHIA, April 15—(AP)—Rationing of jobs after the war—with shorter work days and work weeks for all—was proposed today by Percy R. Bengough, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

If unemployment develops despite post-war planning, "we must ration available employment; in other words shorten the hours of work until we reach a balance," Mr. Bengough said in an address prepared for delivery before the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

"It is doubtful, in the face of technical progress we have made, if it is necessary or possible in the future for all of our people to have full employment on the present hours per day and days per week basis."

MUST MAINTAIN WAGES

The rationing would be ineffective, however, he said "unless wage standards are maintained" to prevent a reduction in buying power.

Mr. Bengough added that the Congress advocated longer compulsory schooling and a compulsory retirement age of 60 to "reduce the number of people looking for employment."

Mr. Bengough told the Congress "the majority of those I represent are a little fearful of the post-war period," and "look for assurance that they will not once again find themselves on the verge of starvation in a land of plenty."

CONTROLS NEEDED

"Our immediate position after victory can best be protected by controls over finance, commerce and industry," he said.

He recommended public works, housing projects and an immigration policy under which "selected people" would be admitted, "but only in such degree as they can be absorbed and do not vitally affect the general welfare of our own citizens."

Air Transport To Eire Is Cut Off by Britain

Northern Ireland and gave the Axis a vantage point for spying on activity in the United Kingdom.

AFFECT ECONOMY

Experts said the restrictions on transport would be bound to affect Eire's entire economy, although the Irish tried to forestall such an eventuality by dispersing their food stocks throughout the country.

Nevertheless food in one form or another constitutes Eire's biggest industry, and the latest developments meant flatter pocketbooks for producers and flatter stomachs for consumers as a result of the lack of means to transport foodstuffs.

Whether the situation would influence Dublin to moderate its stand on neutrality seemed to be a matter of extreme doubt.

The racing so dear to the hearts of most Irishmen was expected to be limited to the places where the horses were trained because no fodder would be available for horse or racegoers.

COAL RESERVES LOW

Eire's coal reserves were reported low. Electric lighting was cut in half two weeks ago to conserve supplies. Dublin has been trying for some time to persuade the people to dig enough turf to replant coal imports. But the turf burns badly, and takes at least three times the space required by coal to produce a like amount of power.

Congestion of Hogs Is Acute at Calgary

CALGARY, April 15. — (CP) — Lifting of the highway ban on heavy trucks combined with a packing plant labor shortage created the most serious congestion of hogs in the history of the Calgary stock yards, yesterday, it was learned here with a carryover of 12,900 hogs in the Alberta stockyards and packing plant yards.

Of this total, approximately 8,300 are in the Burns and Company packing plant yards, 2,300 in the Union stockyard yards and 2,300 at the Alberta stockyards. In addition 13 carloads, sold for shipment to the west coast, were at the stockyards waiting to be moved over the week-end.

The Calgary packing companies are loath to close their gates to further receipts, as was done at Edmonton, but shortage of help has made it impossible for the plants to keep up with the flood of hogs and an embargo may be necessary unless the situation eases.

Mayor, Alderman Of Regina Named C.C.F. Candidates

REGINA, April 15.—(CP)—Mayor C. C. Williams and Alderman C. M. Fines were nominated C.C.F. candidates to contest the Regina constituency in the next Saskatchewan provincial election at a nominating convention last night.

Addressing the meeting, M. J. Coldwell, national C.C.F. leader, charged civil servants in Regina were being intimidated to vote for the present administration in the next election.

He said if a C.C.F. government came to power in Saskatchewan, "civil servants will be appointed and promoted if they merit appointment and promotion, not because they know the right people."

Sub-Lt. Stanley Turner, R.C.N.V.R. of Edmonton who is on overseas duties with the fleet air arm. He joined the navy in 1939 and has had nearly two years' sea time. He was promoted to commissioned rank in June 1943. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Turner live at 10618 111 street.

each case, and said that this closes out the three crop years.

It was recalled that Mr. MacKinnon recently told the commons that the 1940 participation certificate would be cashed in first.

"The board are now completing the actual fractional calculations on all grades and these will be announced in three or four days," Mr. MacKinnon added.

Participation certificates were held by farmers who sold to the Canadian Wheat Board, getting 70 cents a bushel in 1940 and 1941 and 90 cents a bushel in 1942. These crop years closed out Sept. 27, 1943.

BREAKDOWN OF VALUES

Here is a breakdown showing the size of the crop and the value of participation certificates for each year:

Year	Crop (Bushels)	Certificate Value
1940	295,300,000	$25,400,000
1941	99,500,000	14,800,000
1942	167,500,000	18,800,000

The participation certificate program was launched before the war but losses were suffered and the 1940 crop is the first one to realize a profit.

Quebec Power Bill Gets Royal Assent

QUEBEC, April 15—(CP)—Premier Godbout last night announced Sen. T. D. Bouchard will head the Quebec hydro-electric commission set up by a government bill, given royal assent late yesterday, which also provides for expropriation of the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Consolidated, its subsidiary the Beauharnois Power and the Montreal Island Power Company.

The new legislation stipulates that the expropriated companies shall be taken over today by the newly-formed commission which will supervise electrification of this province's rural districts.

The bill was brought down March 23 in the legislative assembly by its sponsor Hon. Wilfrid Hamel, minister of lands and forests who told members that expropriation was decided on in an amendment made by the legislative council.

A U.S. AIR BASE IN ENGLAND, April 15. — (AP) — Movie actor Robert Preston is the latest Hollywood luminary to pop up in the United States Air Force in England. A lieutenant under his full name of Robert Preston Meservey, he is a combat intelligence officer coaching fliers in this group on what to expect from the Germans in way of opposition.

No More Word Of Future Uses C.W.A.C. Centre

No further information has been received in Edmonton regarding plans for the former provincial school of agriculture at Vermilion, now being used by the Canadian Women's Army Corps as a basic training centre, it was announced two weeks ago that the C.W.A.C. will vacate the property on May 15.

According to dispatches received here Friday, the Dominion government is giving consideration to the use of the Vermilion property as a prisoner-of-war camp for enemy officers. No confirmation of this suggestion could be obtained from provincial officials, who have announced that the Dominion government intends to retain control of the property "until further decisions have been reached."

However, it has been learned that the prisoner-of-war camp proposal has been studied by high officials of the department of national defence. One such official discussed the question in the east within the last month.

REHABILITATION CENTRE

It was suggested Saturday that the Vermilion school might be used as a "rehabilitation centre," and that the Dominion government also is considering this proposal.

Such a centre need not be established until the war is over, or until present rehabilitation centres are so overcrowded that an extension of facilities is needed. In the meantime, there is nothing to prevent use of the Vermilion installations as a prisoner-of-war camp.

Col. H. N. Streight, director of internment operations for the Dominion government, is reported to have stated at Ottawa that he has no plan of no plan to establish a prisoner-of-war camp at Vermilion. Discussions so far have not been with his branch.

In view of the Alberta government's statement that Ottawa intends to retain control of the C.W.A.C. centre until it explores all possible uses for the property, it is considered likely that no definite plans have been made as yet.

Rev. T. C. Douglas Will Resign Seat For Sask. Election

REGINA, April 15.—(CP)—Rev. T. C. Douglas, Saskatchewan C.C.F. leader and M.P. for Weyburn, announced his intention to resign his seat in the house of commons to contest the provincial election, at a public meeting in Weyburn this week. E. T. Stinson, previously nominated C.C.F. candidate for Weyburn constituency, withdrew his nomination in order to make way for Mr. Douglas.

When Mr. Douglas was elected provincial leader of the C.C.F. in 1942 he said he would resign his federal seat and seek re-election in a provincial constituency whenever a by-election or general election was held. He intends to resign as federal member as soon as writs for a provincial election are issued.

Says Opponents Of C.C.F. Stir Up Race Hatred

VANCOUVER, April 15—(CP)—Opponents of the C.C.F party have stirred up hatred of racial minorities in Canada for their political advantage, Angus MacInnis, C.C.F. member of parliament for Vancouver East, said yesterday in an address to the opening session of the 12th annual convention of the British Columbia branch of the party.

"The hatred they are trying to stir up against those of Japanese origin today will be used against those of Chinese and Indian origin tomorrow," he said. "And it will be used on the tomorrow after that against other races and groups. That was Hitler's tactic. It can happen here."

CONSOLDATE CONTROL

Under the guise of working for the defeat of Hitler, "big business" had been working to consolidate its control of the nation's economic life, Mr. MacInnis said.

"We find in our country as well as in others determination among the privileged classes to return to the unplanned economy which condemned so many in the years between the First and Second Great Wars to an existence of misery and poverty in a world of abundance. We alone stand opposed to the economic anarchy which leads directly to war."

F. G. McKenzie, provincial secretary, said the C.C.F. had based its plans "on the assumption that two or more provincial C.C.F. governments would come into being in the near future and that we would be called on to take part in a general federal election at any time."

Mr. McKenzie informed reporters that some of the C.C.F. convention's meetings would be held in camera.

SOMETHING NEW HAS BEEN ADDED TO SUB WARFARE

LONDON, April 15.—(CP)—Something new has been added to submarine welfare by the Royal Navy's submarine Unshaken—a gun duel with German tanks.

On a recent patrol of the Mediterranean, U-n-s-h-a-k-e-n's commander, Lieut. J. Whitton, set a course close to shore and noticed a suspension bridge used by enemy transport.

"We decided to have a party," he said. "Tanks on the road replied but with little effect. We obtained hits on girders and buttresses of the bridge and two hits on a factory."

Sabotage Increases by the Hour

Invasion Jitters Sweeping Continent As Underground Activities Intensified

LONDON, April 15.—(CP)—Invasion jitters are sweeping the continent. As fast as reports of intensified activities of the underground movements come in, so do accounts of latest methods adopted by the German gestapo to prevent patriots striking in tune with Allied invasion.

Patriots in France have received instructions for the role they are to play and Brazzaville radio said the resistance movement has been tightened up so each group will know what to do.

Meanwhile sabotage in France increases by the hour. In one month alone more than 250 railway incidents and five attacks on industrial plants have been reported.

VICHY MILITIA BUSY

The Vichy militia has been working overtime, searching houses in the French town of Thonon and even resorting to questioning children about their parents' activities and arresting fathers and mothers on the strength of statements by these boys and girls.

Broadcasting over the Nazi-controlled Paris radio yesterday, Robert de Beauplan said "civil war" has resulted in 905 persons assassinated, of whom 750 belonged to security services, thousands of wounded and innumerable armed assaults, plunderings and thefts.

Reports from the Netherlands said the Germans stormed a small town near Amsterdam and evacuated 5,000 persons but left a few behind as decoys as they believed it would discourage Allied bombing.

FIVE WOMEN SHOT

The Netherlands newspaper, Vrij Netherland, published in London, said the Germans shot five members of the German women's service accused of mixing with the Netherlands population and spreading defeatist rumors.

The Fascist newspaper "Provincia Di Como," quoted by a Chiasso correspondent of "Tribune De Geneve," reported that Italian workers returning to Italy from Germany on holiday have been deserting wholesale.

From Stockholm came a story of assassinations of members of the underground in Czecho-Slovakia. Ten Czechs, including a woman teacher, were condemned by a German special court and executed.

SECOND GROUP SLAIN

According to an official announcement in Prague, they were charged with harboring or otherwise assisting enemies of the Reich as well as escaped prisoners of war. This was the second group of 10 Czechoslovaks to be executed during April on the same charge. The first group included three women.

Fortress of Truk Heavily Pounded

PEARL HARBOR, April 15.—(AP)—American heavy bombers gave Truk one of its heaviest raids of the war Wednesday night, plastering five islands with explosives and encountering no air intercepton and only meagre ground-fire in the 20th attack of the campaign to soften up that Japanese fortress in the Caroline Islands.

While Truk was being pounded, navy headquarters announced yesterday, medium bombers swept at Ponape, guarding the eastern approach to Truk. Ujelang atoll, northeast of Ponape, and four enemy-held atolls in the Marshall Islands also were attacked.

In the Marshall Islands, where air attacks have been launched almost daily for more than two months, docks, warehouses, barracks and other buildings took a 45-ton bombing by army, navy and marine planes. Gun positions were reported "severely strafed" at one objective and another an ammunition dump exploded after a direct hit.

Halifax Citizens Own "White Wings"

HALIFAX, April 15.—(CP)—Because of the current labor shortage for street-cleaning, Halifax home owners will be asked to act as their own "white wings." City council adopted a motion asking citizens to volunteer to clean up streets and gutters in front of their houses and pile up debris for collection by city trucks.

United Nations Council Held Critical Need

TORONTO, April 15.—(CP)—Immediate establishment as "the first essential requisite for a durable and just peace" of a United Nations council, the need of which "in the face of all too many unilateral political actions by individual allies becomes increasingly critical," was urged last night by Marshall Field, editor and publisher of the Chicago Sun.

Such an organization, which "should have a police force of its own," should, said the publisher:

1. "Have jurisdiction over the air traffic of the world."

2. "Facilitate trade between all nations and work to free that trade of cartel control."

ACCESS TO MATERIALS

3. "Strive to make fair access to vitally needed raw materials a fact."

4. "Set up machinery for peaceful settlement of international disputes."

5. "Make it its business to assist backward peoples to capacity for and realization of self-government.

I realize that such self-government is not always immediately in sight. But our times move rapidly and reforms even of this magnitude are by no means impossible.

"There are men in our countries who believe it is visionary to point to the kind of world organization of which I have spoken today," Field told the Toronto Advertising and Sales Club in an address at a dinner meeting held in connection with Canada's Sixth Victory Loan campaign which opens April 24.

MORE VISIONARY

"But . . . I am not more visionary than most of my fellow citizens, judging from poll after poll of public opinion, taken by responsible agencies in the United States. My countrymen . . . are ready to extend their sovereignty to a general organization, if it is good enough, as the primary basis of the peace."

Of "one of the key problems of Europe"—Germany—the publisher declared:

"When Germany surrenders she must be disarmed. Her outstanding war criminals must be punished, if not by the Germans themselves, then by Allied justice. The German army must be disbanded and kept disbanded.

"We need to see to it that German factories are not turned again to armament. To these ends, an Allied army of occupation must be kept in Germany."

New Code Excludes All "Professionals"

OTTAWA, April 15.—(CP)—The National Labor Relations Board yesterday ruled that persons employed in a professional capacity do not come under the government's new labor code covering compulsory collective bargaining and arbitration.

The board at its first public hearing held April 6 under the new act heard representations from a delegation representing 14 professional organizations who asked to be excluded from the code. The delegation said the 25,000 workers affected—including engineers, chemists, architects and surveyors—do not want to be compelled to become a party to a collective agreement negotiated by a labor union.

In its decision made public yesterday the board ruled that under the regulations persons employed in a professional capacity "shall be deemed to be employed in a confidential capacity."

Persons employed in work of a confidential nature or with authority to employ or discharge workers are excluded from the code.

SILVER-PLATED HORSESHOE HAS 'DEADLY' CHARM

LONDON, April 15.—(CP)—By name at least Hohenstein has been retired after a brief career as a "little brown jug" in the grim game of air war.

An R.A.F. bomber crew carried it as a charm—until they were shot down over Germany. A Nazi fighter pilot seized it as a good luck piece, and was promptly shot down over southern England.

The air ministry confiscated the lucky horseshoe and sent it back to the smithy with orders to keep it.

Latest Lend-Lease Deal Proves Allied 'Harmony'

By KENNETH L. DIXON

ANZIO BEACHHEAD, April 15.—(AP)—The latest lend-lease development mentioned in the unofficial report from this front concerns the swapping of the beachhead bands.

The lend-lease deal was made all In the name of Allied harmony. It had the British tommy taking in the Yankee jive and Jazz, and American doughboys bending a burning ear to the skirling of the Scottish bagpipes.

A few days ago the tommies begged for a Yank band to come out of their bivouac and break out a blue note or two.

The American 3rd Division band, which boasts the hottest bunch of daft boys this side of Broadway, trucked over to the British camp, where they got in the groove and gave, both gay and mournful.

When they had the toughest tommy practically bawling in his beard, they shifted to jazz and made music hot enough to melt a Mark IV tank. They had the tommies singing and shouting and the Britons vowed they'd pay the Yankees back.

The other night a long line of lorries rolled up to the 3rd Division bivouac and out leaped a lot of kilted Scottish lads, their bagpipes ready. They lined up before the dumbfounded doughboys, started with a swinging skirl and then really went to town.

Up and down the road the bagpipers marched, their colored kilts swinging and their bagpipes bouncing. They played regimental airs and Scottish tunes and wild highland melodies.

When the strains subsided the doughboys begged for more.

Prisoners Confined After Disturbance

OTTAWA, April 15.—(CP)—A spokesman for the justice department said last night officials of Stony Mountain penitentiary, 15 miles northwest of Winnipeg, have taken disciplinary action in accordance with regulations following disturbances among prisoners two weeks ago.

The spokesman was commenting on a Winnipeg dispatch which quoted the Winnipeg Tribune as saying about 100 convicts were re ported in close confinement following the disturbances.

Penitentiary regulations outline what action was to be taken in case of disturbance, the spokesman said. He did not know exactly what action had been taken at Stony Mountain but felt certain it was in accordance with regulations.

He had heard of no new disturbances and believed that conditions were returning to normal at the penitentiary.

The disturbances occurred following the transfer of 150 men from Portsmouth penitentiary at Kingston, Ont.

Prompt Payment Of $18,000,000 to Miners Demanded

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP)—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, last night demanded prompt payment of $18,000,000 in retroactive portal-to-portal pay to the United States' soft coal miners, asserted that a conspiracy to defraud them exists and warned that they are becoming "increasingly angry at the failure of their government to redeem its promise."

Lewis calculated the sum on the basis of $40 a miner, the terms on which he agreed to write off the underground travel time claim for last April, May and June. These terms are part of the U.M.W. contract with 75 per cent of the operators. The contract is awaiting War Labor Board action.

It looks as if a blockbuster had fallen on a fat military target in the above scene. But it wasn't the Nazi enemy who caused the damage shown above. The scene is the debris left following the costly blaze that swept Camp 550, the premises of the Metcalfe-Hamilton-Kansas City Bridge Co., a U.S. contracting firm located at 124 street and 125 avenue. Heavy road machinery under repair with several trucks and other vehicles were destroyed in the blaze early Friday that started when an electric light bulb ignited a drop of gasoline.

Plans are being completed for alteration of Government House, former residence of lieutenant-governors of Alberta, to make it suitable for use as a convalescent home for returned servicemen. Mrs. J. S. Matthews registered the first hole-in-one of the local golf season when she negotiated the 12th on the Municipal with one stroke Saturday afternoon.

Deathless spirit of Canada's gallant sons who fell at Vimy Ridge in the First Great War was honored again Sunday when many of their still living comrades in the Edmonton Branch of the Canadian Corps Association, marched to the Cenotaph where a wreath was laid in commemoration. Easter Sunday was a solemn day in Edmonton. Even the crowds parading up and down Jasper avenue in festive gay colors were quiet. Spencer H. Biby of Anchorage, Alaska, has been appointed director of the American Red Cross activities in Canada and Alaska.

The City of Edmonton at December 31, 1943, had a cash surplus of $669,040.36 as against a cash deficit of $112,756.01 the previous year. Edmonton's first 1944 triplets arrived Easter Sunday. They were two boys and a girl, born at the Misericordia hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Eric Abel of Calmar.

Hart Cantelon, a graduate of the University of Alberta, who has been attending St. Stephen's College, has been appointed on the staff of the Edmonton Y.M.C.A. as assistant community secretary.

Harry Tytenych, a guest at the Windsor hotel, walked into the lobby of the hotel at 10:55 p.m. Monday, attempted to speak, and dropped dead. Mrs. Tytenych had lived in the hotel for some time. Every person should have a chest X-ray to make sure he has not contracted tuberculosis," said Miss Anne Grant, Ottawa, field secretary of the Canadian Tuberculosis Association, who arrived here Tuesday on her annual tour of Canada.

Canada is now accepting the main responsibility for operation and maintenance of airports along the Northwest Staging Route from Edmonton to the border of Alaska, it was announced Wednesday. Three children, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Rosland, Wabamun, were burned to death about 3:30 p.m. Tuesday when fire swept through their home, trapping them in the upper part of the house.

A heavy influx of hogs to the Edmonton stockyards on Wednesday morning caused a plugging of facilities, and officials declared they would not be able to accept any more shipments until further notice. Canadian radio station CJCA, now controlled by the University of Alberta, are to be transferred to the Alberta Government Telephones, it is announced by Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of railways and telephones.

Donald MacLeod, Lake Isle, was unanimously elected president of the Alberta Provincial Sheep Breeders' Co-Operative Association Ltd., at the annual meeting here. F. R. Haythorne, South Edmonton, was elected vice-president. With a total of 130 entries, more than double the number which took part a year ago, the annual school boxing and wrestling competitions, including semi-finals, are being staged at Westglen school gym.

Battle camouflage on aircraft of the Northwest Staging Route is to be replaced by the bright yellow of all R.C.A.F. training planes, it was announced today by Group Capt. V. H. Patriarche, A.F.C., commanding officer of the route. The change is being made because the planes are not liable to enemy attack and the camouflage color makes it very difficult to see them when they are forced down in the wild north country.

A University of Alberta graduate in 1943 with honors in political economy, Miss Sophia Gogek, 11816 88 street, has been awarded the Marshall Field Fellowship at the University of Chicago for 1944-45.

First public hearing of the legislative committee investigating the liquor situation in Alberta will be held in the Legislative buildings Saturday, May 6. The japs are being beaten to a standstill in the Southwest Pacific naval theatre, according to Lt. Dan R. Lovelace, U.S.N.R., who is in Edmonton after serving in the great battles for the Marshall Islands. Lt. Lovelace is the husband of the former Miss Audrey Michaels, daughter of John Michaels, well-known Edmonton news dealer.

"Creating a finer type of character in citizens is one of the major problems before us," the Rev. Dr. E. Crossley Hunter, minister of Knox United church, Winnipeg, said in an address before a special meeting of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce Wednesday. Mrs. C. W. R. Scouten, 11337 94 street, was presented with the first quarterly citizenship award sponsored by the Edmonton Junior Chamber of Commerce at a meeting Wednesday night, for her untiring efforts for the salvage campaign and collecting reading material for the armed forces.

A 40-mile stretch of highway from Bickerdike, just west of Edson on the Jasper highway, to Coalspur, is to be completed this year, Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, said Thursday. Lance Corporal J. H. Crowe of Beaver Dam, north of Edmonton, was suffered a leg wound while serving with The Loyal Edmonton Regiment in Sicily last summer, arrived in Edmonton Wednesday.

No serious shortage of farm labor to handle spring seeding operations is expected by officials of the provincial department of agriculture. "The 1914 Red Chevron Club of Edmonton" will be the new name of the 1914 veterans, it was decided at a meeting held Wednesday.

The Canadian Women's Army Corps basic training centre at Vermilion scheduled to close on May 15, may be used by the department of national defence as a prisoner-of-war camp for enemy officers.

The net earnings of the sinking fund of the city of Edmonton during 1943 amounted to $205,315.57 and have been paid to the city under the terms of the 1937 refinancing plan.

Eight championships were decided on the second night of the three-day city schools boxing and wrestling competitions when a total of 32 thrilling bouts were staged at the Westglen gym.

Chief Petty Officer Bennett McKeever, former Edmonton rugby football star, has returned to the city on furlough. He is in charge of sports at Stadacona 2 barracks of the R.C.N.V.R. at Halifax.

All city buildings whether houses or otherwise where three or more families are housed, come under the definition of an apartment house, and must conform with the building zoning, health and fire regulations for apartments under terms of the new license by-law recently authorized.

The Royal Alexandra hospital opened its doors to the work no less than 13 times on Thursday, April 13. Civilians travelling to the Norman Wells district in the Northwest Territories now require permits issued through the Alaska Highway Traffic Control Board. Announcement that two reserve Army camp training periods will be held this year was made by headquarters of the 41st (Hen.) Brigade Group at Calgary.

April 15

It was announced that the Alberta objective the Sixth Victory Loan drive which will open April 24, will be $37,000,000. The quota for general sales in Edmonton is $3,100,000, the same as the last loan. But in the last loan the sales totalled $5,856,555 and officials are hopeful that this amount will be exceeded this time.

Prospects are bright for a pleasant week-end. That's all for now.

Best of everything until next week.

Tax Paying

Those who found it inconvenient to prepay their city taxes during the first half of January may pay without penalties in four instalments, at the middle of May, July, September and November. Those who pay the whole sum on the first instalment date will be allowed a discount of one per cent.

This means—and it is in accord with the custom—that the whole amount of the year's taxes must be paid within seven months of the setting of the instalment dates, if penalties are to be avoided. It is true that these are months in which some household expenses are high—notably the fuel bills—but the money will have to come out of the earnings of little more than half the year.

Obviously if the tax-rate could be struck earlier in the year—preferably in January —a longer time could be allowed between instalments, paying made easier for people of modest means, and liability lessened of some falling into arrears. Better still, a monthly instalment plan could be worked out that would spread the payments over the entire year and thus make paying as easy as possible.

They Won't Do It

Nova Scotia's minister of mines would like to have Quebec and eastern Ontario "zoned" for the sale of Nova Scotia coal. What he really means is that the area should be barred against coal from any other source and made a preserve in which the Nova Scotia mines would have an exclusive home-made market.

If that were done, Alberta mines could with equal right ask for a monopoly covering western Ontario, Manitoba, and the territory clear through to British Columbia, including so much of the latter province as was not claimed as a barred "zone" by the mines in its coastal belt.

Not many things are less likely to happen than that the Dominion can be thus chopped up into two or three areas, each the exclusive monopoly of one of the coal-producing regions. Their wide-spread enthusiasm for economic nationalism the people of Ontario and Quebec never worked themselves up to willingness to bar United tates coal and rely on Canadian sources of supply. They are last likely to fall for the idea now, and unless they do the plan may as well be dropped as impracticable.

Up to the City

While council instructed the commissioners to continue their efforts to work out a joint plan for beautifying the approaches to the Macdonald hotel, the discussion at the council meeting confirms the view that the C.N.R. is not likely to accept any large share of the expense. If, as Mayor Fry suggested, the Railways may be holding back in hope that the city will stand the whole cost, they have been holding back a long time and for obvious reasons could hardly be supposed to do anything else.

It is not so much for the benefit of the Railways' hotel the beautification scheme is desirable, as to remove from the city the stigma of having failed to play up to the lead that was given when that splendid structures was built. The Railways might have reasonably made the building of the hotel conditional upon the city carrying through a suitable improvement of the surroundings. That was not insisted upon, but the failure of the city to do the appropriate thing is none the less clear.

It is to be hoped the commissioners can induce the Railways to share the cost in some substantial degree. But, whether they do so or not, the project should be carried out—not for the benefit of the hotel, but for the credit and benefit of Edmonton.

Isn't It the Truth

The food administration at Washington reports that civilians in the United States have eaten more food so far this year than in any corresponding period in the last decade. Figures are not needed to prove that Canadians are not far behind, if at all behind, their neighbors in gastronomic activities. We are, in fact, gobbling meals and lunches and snacks at all hours. While is strictly the business of the individual, but has its effect all the same on the general health, or what is miscalled "the public health."

There isn't anything the law should or can do to stop this, save when the food control authorities have to set coupon limits in order to make the available supplies go around. The doctors and surgeons and druggists and hospitals—and undertakers—will do what the situation requires until plain common sense reasserts itself, as it will in course of time, and leads us back to more tempered and wholesome living.

Every normal person admits to himself and his friends that "We've eaten too much". But, as Mark Twain said about the weather, nobody seems to do anything about it.

The Crimea Foot-Race

Russian armies rolled across the Crimea in every direction faster than the commanders can have expected. At the end of a week the Nazis who were still alive and not captured or evacuated were herded in one-tenth the area of the peninsula around Sevastopol, supposedly preparing to make a last-ditch fight to hold the fortress which it took them eight months to capture two years ago.

An advance at this pace could only be possible where the resistance was weak. Men who are travelling 40 miles a day, whether in pursuit or in flight, are not doing much fighting en route.

Three facts are noted in Moscow communiques which may throw light on the question of enemy power to resist. "Raw" German troops were thrown into the fray in considerable numbers. Prisoners have been captured in unusually large numbers. The Germans seized the motor equipment of their Romanian comrades and fled, leaving the latter to their fate—as Rommel's elite corps left the Italians in Libya.

These incidents seem to indicate that Hitler's battle-tried troops are getting scarce, that demoralization is making itself apparent, and that the Romanians do not rank, any higher than Italians in the estimation of German officers when retreat is necessary and transport scarce.

If Sevastopol does not stand a long siege that will not be because the Nazis have not had time to fortify it and gather supplies and men. Quick capture of that stronghold would be further evidence that the fight is going out of the Hitlerites in the east.

Nearly 4,000 Allied bombers pounded Axis targets in seven countries in one day, thereby establishing a record number of machines employed in a day and for the extent of enemy territory put under attack. But neither record may stand long. One factory in the United States turned out during March alone one-fifth as many bombers as flew in this episode. The air-krieg is mounting, not diminishing.

—V—

From New Guinea to the Kuriles, American bombers dumped explosives in one day on thirteen Jap bases along a line 4,000 miles long. Not less remarkable, all the planes returned safely, and reported meeting little enemy air opposition. Perhaps it is for reasons of strategy that Tokyo has withdrawn its air forces from the battered island bases. But the marked change suggests that the reason for the strategy is the heavy mortality among pilots and planes, coupled with recognition that the skies over Japan are likely to be invaded before long.

Finds Approval of De Gaulle in Hull's Speech

U.S. State Department Has Recognized Him as the French Leader

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

Mr. Hull's expose of foreign policy last Sunday was welcome and deserves unqualified praise. It was by far the clearest statement of the American position which has been made by anybody since the beginning of the war. And, furthermore, it represents progress. Be cause Mr. Hull's considered statement is not a new departure in foreign policy; but represents what has been implied all along, then it has been more honored in the breach than the observance.

Let us take the statement on the French Committee of Liberation. This is a brand-new statement; it is vastly clearer than any that has previously been made; and it is not in harmony with past practices. Actually, it concedes to the French Committee nearly everything it has ever asked for until about three weeks ago, when General de Gaulle for the first time in the history of the Committee referred to it as a provisional government of France. Actually, there is nothing in Mr. Hull's statement that is incompatible with what General de Gaulle proposed, as a method of procedure, in his speech of March 18—and has been proposing for years, while receiving nothing but snubs. Among the representatives of the French Committee before the speech has been received with immense satisfaction, and as a new step.

For the very first time—and in apparent contradiction to previous statements of policy — Mr. Hull says:

"The president and I are clear as to the need from the outset of French civil administration—and democratic French administration—in France. We are disposed to see the French Committee of National Liberation exercise leadership to establish law and order under the supervision of the Allied commander in chief. The committee has given public assurance that it doesn't propose to perpetuate its authority . . . and that it wishes at the earliest possible date to have the French people exercise their own sovereign will. . . ."

This is the first time that the president or state department has publicly recognized the leadership of the French committee in metropolitan France. And publicly and for exercising that leadership as territories become liberated was presented to our authorities in December, 1942. That plan envisaged that the committee would be recognized as a purely provisional government only when it was able to move to Paris, and only until a consultative assembly had been elected on a broad basis of universal suffrage, including, for the first time, women after which the committee would tender its resignation.

A dispatch from Algiers on Monday states "the French were surprised by the favorable move in of Secretary Hull's allusions to the committee"—which makes it clear that if this has been our consistent policy, we have certainly kept it from the committee.

It is now to be hoped that this policy will be consistently adhered to and not undermined by career diplomacy in actual touch with the situation, nor sabotaged by personal likes or dislikes. Sometimes openly expressed by people in high office.

What it also greatly to be hoped that as a result General de Gaulle will retreat from the extreme position he has taken in the last fortnight, and which has seemed dictatorial inside his committee and non-cooperative with his allies. Recognition of General de Gaulle, however, it must be said that the policy followed in practice if not in theory, was bound to create just his kind of behavior. It is always a mistake to make concessions only when they are forced. Any high-handed action. For that is an invitation to high-handedness.

Mr. Hull also took a long step forward in clearly welcoming progressive governments in Europe. In so doing Mr. Hull is making concessions to the cities. We do not know whether this is due to the improved military situation, or to the fast proaching invasion, or to what is manifesting itself in Europe—and has been at work long.

But the reasons are immaterial to the fact, which is welcome and praiseworthy. The possibility of avoiding chaos in Europe is in exact proportion to our capacity to estimate what the people want. And it is by no means so difficult to analyze and assess the social forces operating in occupied Europe, as our authorities have seemed to think. It is, for instance, an obvious fact that the opposition to Fascism has, in every country, and without exception, come from the progressive forces. It is in the course of nature that after the defeat of Fascism these forces will assume leadership. And the extent to which they can be kept within reasonable bounds will inevitably be measured by the extent to which they enjoy sympathy and support, and for the sake of retaining it are willing to accept some guidance.

Bourassa's Account of 1911

By GRANT DEXTER

Mr. Bourassa told the story of the 1911 campaign in a series of articles which appeared in Le Devoir in May and June of 1913.

The following extracts are free translations but can readily be checked against the original articles.

Mr. Bourassa prior to the election had laid down the rule that the Nationalists would not form a party in the ordinary sense but, rather, would support:

1)—Candidates, liberal or Conservative, for or against reciprocity, who will at first hand pledge their party to the participation direct or indirect, in the wars of the Empire outside of Canada. . . ."

"—and this is no secret—to obtain the election of enough independent members to overthrow the navy bill and all other means of contributing to Imperial armaments. . . ."

This left it up to the Conservatives either to stand aside and let the Nationalists fight the Liberals or to nominate men in the last cornered fights. The Conservatives were not long in making their choice. They desired to reduce Laurier's strength in Quebec and therefore they did not nominate Conservative candidates but let the Nationalists have a clear field. Some men of known Conservative leanings ran as "nationalists" or "independents" but all such pleaded for support from Mr. Bourassa and Mr. Lavergne. Mr. Bourassa names some of these men as follows: Mr. Blondin, Mr. Lesperance, Mr. Nantel, Mr. Rainville and Mr. Pelletier.

Mr. Pelletier is quoted as appealing to Mr. Bourassa for support in these terms: "Tell Bourassa that I beg of him on my knees to come and speak in my favor. . . . Yes, on my knees."

But how was the Nationalist campaign to be financed? Mr. Bourassa wrote that the Nationalists "furnished the ideas, the enthusiasm and the popularity. But that was all they could give."

The Conservative party promptly came to the rescue. "They" (the Conservatives), Mr. Bourassa recorded, "did not hesitate to transfer to the 'autonomist' party established in a great part of their funds, without exacting any promise or guarantee whatsoever from the candidates, for or against reciprocity, who fought the government because of their hatred of the navy bill and who denounced Mr. Borden's no less nefarious policy."

When the Conservative party's initial gift was spent, Mr. Bourassa continued, Sir Hugh Graham, later Lord Atholstan, "appeared on the scene. He offered to finance Nationalist candidates on certain conditions but when the conditions were refused, 'he paid anyway.'"

. Mr. Bourassa commented:

"The fact remains that the Conservative party funds and the Imperial treasury helped to defray the election dues of from thirty to forty candidates, for or against reciprocity, who denounced the navy bill."

But the Conservatives went further. "Prominent Conservatives, "armed with electoral lists of all the eastern counties," paid for subscriptions to Le Devoir. The Nationalists, Mr. Bourassa remarked, were princely:

"Far from taking advantage of the situation and holding up these gentlemen, the paper gave them generous terms. . . . And we had the paramount satisfaction of having the Mammon of Tory-imperialistic iniquity serve to spread the good Nationalist doctrine in full columns."

The success of this strategy promised so well in Quebec that the Conservative party begged Mr. Bourassa and his lieutenants to come into Ontario constituencies in which there was a French-Canadian vote which, by a Nationalist appeal, might be driven away from the Liberals. Mr. Bourassa graciously responded and spoke in Nipissing and Algoma East. In his articles he reproduced the telegrams of appeal from such well-known Conservatives as George Gordon who, later on, was appointed to the Senate.

Summing up, Mr. Bourassa wrote:

"The Conservative party helped with its electoral funds and indirect support all the candidates opposed to the Liberal policy—a so-called Canadian navy—and the Conservative policy of immediate contribution (to the British navy)."

Later on when these Nationalists repudiated their election pledges, Mr. Bourassa blamed, equally, the Conservative party. He wrote: "The obligation which these ministers and members failed to live up to, is one which they assumed with the full knowledge of the heads of the Tory party, which took advantage of it to rise to power."

In the result, 27 Nationalists were elected in Quebec and 13 which meant the difference between victory and defeat for the Conservative party. The Conservatives took office with the support of the Quebec Nationalists whom they had financed in the election campaign. Failing these Nationalists the Conservatives would have had only 103 seats in a house of 219 members.

The grand strategy succeeded.

"Greedy Walls"

Editor, Bulletin: This ruralite sometimes gets puzzled to know what our provincial legislatures on the prairies are, if one may so describe them, the "real boss" in the Canadian parliamentary hitch?

On this sunny front, I would like to bring forward a couple of "exhibits," one from The Bulletin's columns and the other from my home paper in Saskatchewan:

(1)—"Expressing commendation of the Dominion government announcement that taxes are to be established for farm products, and calling for appointment of representative farm organizations to any body set up to implement the Dominion's policy, and amended executive dealing with the floor price question received unanimous support in the Legislature Tuesday evening." . . . (Edmonton Bulletin, March 22, 1944).

(2)—"The following resolution, moved by Mr. MacDonald (Meadow Lake) was adopted unanimously by the Saskatchewan Legislature yesterday: 'That this assembly, recognizing that prosperity of all industry depends on international co-operation in the removal of trade barriers and the promotion of world trade, urges that the government of Canada continue to do everything within its power to promote the freest possible exchange of goods among the countries of the world'" (Weyburn Review, April 6, 1944).

I agree with the economic sentiments expressed in those resolutions. In the expression of an eastern columnist on this same trading front: "Away with the greedy walls!" In my humble opinion, these views are very much on the beam, and in alignment with the needs of this shrinking world.

University Students

Editor, Bulletin: I see a lady writing under the name of "Interested" seems to think university students should be exempt from military service.

I also had a son in the same university who gave his life for this lady on March 24th in aerial combat with our enemies, the Germans.

Furthermore I have another son training now in air crew, who soon will be overseas fighting the enemy to keep them from coming over here to devastate and enslave this lady's home and family.

She has one son in the services which is greatly to her credit and I honor her for this. There is nobody better qualified than I am to understand how she feels about this question. To say I am heartbroken over the loss of my son (a brilliant student and as fine and popular a boy as ever left Canada to fight for us all here at home) is a very feeble effort to express my terrible anguish, which seems to increase daily instead of becoming easier to bear.

However, it is better to have had a son that one can always be proud of—very proud—than to know deep in your heart that your son is a coward afraid to go out and fight for his mother, his wife and all those behind her in Canada.

Unless a man has volunteered to fight wherever needed, his usefulness is of doubtful value in the filmsy exercises about being in an "essential industry" or a "varsity student," are merely a means of shirking his duty at a time when others are giving their lives for our freedom.

If anyone wishes to find out if he is in an "essential category" let him first volunteer for active service. He can then face his fellow countrymen with a clear conscience and look them in the eye as a real man and not as a shirker. Applies not only to varsity students, but as they are presumed to be "potential leaders" they should set the example.

It certainly is not fair that other men should give their lives merely to enable some people to keep their boys at the varsity, which we are all paying taxes for.

Which Is Correct?

Editor, Bulletin: Isn't it time the people of Canada were told what passed between General McNaughton and Mackenzie King during that mysterious four-hour conference they held on the general's return to Canada?

The most important officer in the Canadian Army is discharged because he is not physically unfit, according to the powers that be. The general himself denies this vigorously and assures us he is fit. When a puzzled public asks which of these conflicting statements is correct, the unanswerable Mackenzie Mandisby assures us it would not be of interest to the public morale to answer that question just now.

Let the public be the judge of that! It is our taxes that are paying for this hide-bound big, fat civilian and military, and we have a right to know what goes on in a case like this.

The Return to Baker Street

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

You would have thought that everything had been said about the late Sherlock Holmes, of Baker Street, had been said long ago; but, like that other "late," the late Hamlet of Denmark, Holmes attracts in every generation another set of admirers and commentators, who are continually finding out something new about him. Thus during the past year or two three definitive and ponderous books of research have appeared to clear up the remaining mysteries in the life of Holmes, and doubtless many more will yet appear to clear up mysteries of far inconsequence. Holmes is now established as an immortal figure in English letters.

Why is it that an obscure detective, in a mean street, dealing with second-rate crimes in a stuffy Victorian world, should be more popular than any of the great modern detectives, who use streamlined methods and daily glisten with glamor? Why is it that the rather primitive and obvious mannerisms of Holmes are still much esteemed by connoisseurs of murder than all the fancier and slicker detective tales of our time?

The reason, I fancy, will not be found in Conan Doyle's superior powers of psychologic. That is obvious enough. It certainly will not be found in Holmes' superior powers of psychologic. Indeed many of the modern practitioners of fiction could easily beat him at his own game. No, the continual popularity of Holmes stems from another and deeper source in the mind of the reader.

Enter the world of Baker Street. It was a comfortable, cosy little world of hansom cabs, gaslights, tobacco smoke, whiskers and rustling petticoats. It was a world apparently settled forever, secure behind the defence of the British navy, ruled for its own good by British gentlemen. It was a fine time to live—no world revolution, no world war, no irritating economists about.

In such a world crime was disreputable, unusual, shocking. Therefore, when Holmes discovered a crime, he knew it was a world-wide sensation. Even a petty theft was good enough for an exciting tale.

The crimes studied by Holmes appeared exciting and horrible because goodness, honesty and a settled society were accepted as the normal state of man. Whereas today, in a horrible world like ours, the hard-driven writer of detective tales must turn up something more horrible in every book, providing his readers with an increasing dose of the drug, until today, with presidents, prime ministers, economists, churchmen and scientists all reading detective stories voraciously, only the most violent drug will satisfy this universal addiction, and no one can produce a drug strong enough. The horrors of doses no longer suffice and presently the addict, unable to find any relief in the modern dispensaries, flees in desperation back to the good times in the gaslight, to bacco smell, petticoats and Victorianism.

Holmes, then, emerges as a giant among the pygmies of crime, and his villains loom up monstrous and unique simply because everyone around them is entirely respectable in the best of all possible worlds. But put Holmes into our world, import his villains into our genre of crime, and they would be pitiful and ridiculous. Who would bother today about a Red-Headed League boring a hole into a bank? Under the influence of monetary reformers, many people would secretly consider it a very sound social reform. Who would believe in the Hound of the Baskervilles in a modern, scientific civilization? Such creatures could live only on the English moors in the latter days of the Queen. What publisher today would think of printing "A Study in Scarlet"? Such a story would pale into a sickly pink against the really scarlet backdrop of our times. And beside the tough school of modern detective fiction Holmes himself would be a pathetic cockney from Baker Street.

The present flight of readers to Holmes is pure nostalgia, a longing for a day when crime was rare, before crime had been organized into vast political systems which overwhelmed a large part of the world; when people believed in the inevitable virtues of progress; when all manners and morals had been corroded with scepticism and cynicism; before it was considered a mark of wisdom to be pessimistic and contemptuous; before a hateful sophistication had become the accepted proof of intelligence.

Modern people fly to Baker Street, into the arms of Holmes and Watson and into the crimes of the Nineties simply to get away from crime, the universal crime in which lives about them today. Beside their present surroundings Holmes' mild murderers and pudding pickpockets are pleasant, attractive folk and good relaxation. It is a strange commentary on the modern world and civilization of gadgets, machines and progress that so many of its inhabitants still make their spiritual home in Baker Street.

They All Get Pushed Around

By J. H. GRAY

When the contemplation of the mess the human race has made of its affairs on this planet becomes too painful to behold, we have developed the habit of retreating to the city zoo. There, among the lower animals, you find some human foibles. You could, at least, until this year. Now we must record the sombre fact that the lower animals have let us down. Toward each other they are now behaving like ordinary human beings; or even worse.

Of all the animals in the zoo, the deer has long been our favorite. Does have engaging personalities; they have the soft and gentle eyes of the poets. They are clean. They live and die true. That was all true until this year. On Sunday they were acting like boors. They pushed each other around. The old butted the young away from the pop-corn. The strong pushed the weak around. There was no consideration at all of social responsibility in the deer world. Indeed, there was so much bad blood on tap that most of the pop-corn got trodden into the mud because of the hoggishness of the tougher deer.

Over in the other wire enclosures, a couple of coyotes had earlier undertaken to de-hide each other. They made so much noise in the process that the whole zoo was turned into a four-alarm riot. An hour later the guinea fowl were still squawking about it.

The job the coyotes did on each other was just about as complete as it could be without killing. When peace was restored one was hobbling around on three legs and the other's hide was scattered all over the pen. One of the silver foxes also showed signs of recent combat for a large expanse of hide was showing where it should have been covered with beautiful black and white fur. ,

Because of their wide reputation for meanness, little is ever expected from the polar bears in the way of decent behavior. They are true to form on Sunday. Carmichael, who is still growing, was still intimidating Clarence and Clemenstine in the other cage. Clarence was behaving just as badly with his cell-mate. He begged the bread and peanuts and kept his sister grovelling in a corner away from the customers.

Even the rabbits, where nonbelligerency is proverbial, were infected by the atmosphere of the place. They were fighting over the rabbits drove their smaller companions away from the proffered food.

The sight of rabbits pushing each other around was too much. We got away from the zoo as possible. On the way home our exogitations produced some deeply profound thoughts on the evil resulting from forcing wild animals into close association with human beings. These conclusions were knocked on the head all too quickly by noisy emanations from the trees along the river. A squirrel, having caught his neighbor in the act of raiding his hoard of orange peels, was chasing him through the trees, cracking insults after him and promising instant and painful death to the interval if and when he caught him.

The animal kingdom, from this random sampling of the evidence, seems to be going to pot, and at a rate at least equal to that being made in the same direction by genus homo. Offhand, we know of no more melancholy thought with which to head into spring and summer.

Looking Backward

From The Bulletin Files

1894: 50 Years Ago

Thursday's train brought three coaches and 120 settlers for Saskatchewan and 29 settlers for Edmonton.

It may be remarked as showing the position of Edmonton as a fur buying centre that furs traded as far south as Morley and Calgary and as far north as Great Slave Lake are purchased by Edmonton buyers.

Nearly all the young apple trees that were being grown in orchards here in town were destroyed during the past winter by rabbits.

Major and Miner Notes

By John Oliver

FULLY maintaining the high standard that has made it the outstanding event in this city's musical life, the Women's Musical Club Celebrity Series of concerts will be carried on during the 1944-45 season, it was announced today by Mrs. Ernest Meaden, manager of the series. Six concerts will be given, and as was the case during the last season, an "added" attraction over and above the regular series will be held, bringing the aggregate to seven. The six attractions are: Nathan Milstein, violinist; Bidu Sayao, soprano; Alexander Uninsky, pianist; Martial Singher, baritone; Jean Watson, contralto, and Pierre Luboshutz and Genia Nemenoff, duo-pianists. The added concert will be given by Richard Crooks, than whom no more popular tenor is before the public today.

Of the six artists in the regular series, only Miss Sayao has been here before. She appeared during the 1940-41 season, and won an unequivocal triumph with her rare gift of song, and her charming personality. Mr. Crooks has appeared three times in the Celebrity Series, and he is one artist who can come back time and again and be sure of a whole-hearted welcome.

Tentative dates have been set, but as they are tentative and may be altered a day or so one way or another before the start, let it suffice to say that one regular concert will be held in each of the following months: October, November, December, January, February and April. The Crooks concert will be in January. Thus, from all appearances, the 11th season of Celebrity Series concerts is well organized, and will bear comparison with any of its predecessors.

Mrs. Meaden stated that she will open the box office at Heintzman's store from April 17 to 22, inclusive, during which period subscribers will be able to make their reservations for next season. On April 24 remaining seats will be made available to those on the waiting list, and other new subscribers. An innovation this year, is that provincial tax tickets may be mailed out with the admission tickets, thus saving inconvenience at the last minute in obtaining same.

Miss Sayao is one of the most brilliant, and most popular members of the Metropolitan Opera Association. She is a "first-string" or "top-drawer" singer, and is chosen for the most difficult and exacting roles. Whether in La Traviata, La Pelleas and Melisande or any other role she is equally at home. In many quarters she is acclaimed as the "glamor girl" of the opera, and only recently she won international fame as being one of the best, and most fashionably dressed women in the United States. She is one of the most convincing ambassadors of good-will that could have been sent from her native country of Brazil.

Nathan Milstein, although he has never appeared here, is familiar through his numerous appearances—24 including this season's concerts—as soloist with the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra on its Sunday afternoon broadcasts. He is unsurpassed among contemporary violinists. Now 39 years old, he is at the peak of his career. He has made 14 tours of the United States and Eastern Canada, as well as innumerable tours of Europe, two of Mexico, and has made appearances in Egypt and Palestine. He has been the featured soloist with all the great symphony orchestras of the United States and Europe.

Alexander Uninsky undoubtedly is one of the most eminent of the world's great pianists. After a recent concert a New York critic wrote that never had he heard so many notes played in a concert as Mr. Uninsky played. Born at Kiev, Russia, he was a popular performer in London, Paris, Vienna, Rome, Madrid and other European centres from 1932 to 1939, while Morocco and the Indies also welcomed him. Although his recitals in all those places were many, he appeared on numerous occasions as soloist with symphony orchestras.

He arrived in the United States in January, 1942, after appearing in South America. He made his New York debut at Carnegie Hall. Since then he has been in constant demand as a recitalist. His technique is reported in New York papers to be "prodigious" and "colossal."

Martial Singher is the newest sensation among the Metropolitan Opera Association baritones. He has appeared in recital as well as at the "Met," and his concert notices have been just as eloquent as those of his opera appearances. In opera he has particularly impressed New York with his work in Pelleas and Melisande by Debussy, in which he appeared with Bidu Sayao. He has a fluent command of language and already it is known that his program here will include a large proportion of songs by British composers, sung in English. From all accounts he is a singer well worth hearing, and we may consider ourselves fortunate in having him come here so soon after he has established himself as an outstanding artist even in New York.

Jean Watson is a Canadian-born singer, having first seen the light of day at Toronto. Only last Sunday she was one of the soloists in the special Easter broadcast of Bach's St. Matthew Passion by the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra and the Westminster Choir, under Bruno Walter. In the spring of 1940 she made her first sensational success in the United States as soloist at the celebrated Bach festival at Bethlehem, Pa. In April, 1943, she was engaged to appear in performances of the St. Matthew Passion with Bruno Walter and the Philharmonic, and her engagement for the same work last Sunday resulted from her splendid performances last year.

Pierre Luboshutz and Genia Nemenoff, or Mr. and Mrs. Luboshutz, form one of the several great duo-piano teams before the public today. In previous years we have heard the Bartlett-Robertson and McKenzie duo-piano teams. The Luboshutz-Nemenoff team will measure up to the standard of the others.

Richard Crooks with his appealing voice, which has a quality unfortunately only rarely heard, is one of the most popular artists in the world. He is a favorite in opera, concert and on the radio, while he is one of the most-recorded of all singers. It will be a delight, as it always is, to hear him again.

Information from agents who have been active in affairs of the Edmonton Civic Ope Society, bring back tidings that all is in readiness for the production of Katinka at the Strand theatre next Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday. There will be tuneful, appealing music, a star singing cast, a well-drilled and efficient chorus, a first class orchestra, attractive scenery and several ballet numbers are promised, so we look for a treat in their line. Mrs. James B. Carmichael, general musical director has wisely decided to keep her whole group into a cohesive, smooth-working whole and has prepared a show that will be the equal of any her society has presented in past years.

On Sunday afternoon at the Public Library, the World Famous Music Club will revive part of a musical work entitled Romany Rendezvous performed last year in aid of war activities. The performance will be under the direction of Mrs. Peter McSporran, with Misses Una Palmer, Ethel Dunn, and Beryl McLeod singing the solo assignments. The concluding work on the program will be Schubert's Omnipotence. The public is invited to attend. The performance will commence at 3:30 p.m.

Artists Who Will Appear Here in Next Celebrity Series

In the above layout are shown the artists who will come here in the 11th season of Celebrity Series sponsored by the Women's Musical Club. Of those shown only Bidu Sayao has appeared here before. In addition, an extra concert will be given by Richard Crooks, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Association.

Victory Bonds To Be Sold in Canada's Arctic

By C. H. HIGGINBOTHAM
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, April 14.—When R. M. S. Nascopie steams out of Montreal this summer for the annual eastern Arctic patrol, D. McKeand, government superintendent for that area, will take with him bonds of the sixth Victory Loan, although by that time the loan will have officially closed in Canada. An order-in-council provides for sales to be made at the far northern points the vessel touches during the three months' voyage.

Starting with the first loan it is now estimated that $25,000 worth of bonds have been sold to trappers, traders and police officers from the Nascopie since the first patrol of the war. On one patrol $10,000 worth were bought by patriotic white residents. The postal officer aboard the ship also carries war savings stamps and certificates, for which there has been a ready sale.

No war bonds have been sold to the Eskimo for two reasons. In the first instance he has no conception of war and there would be no point in selling him a war bond. On the practical side his economy differs from that of the white man. One of his main sources of income is the white fox of the arctic which he exchanges for merchandise. When the peak in the fox cycle is reached, as in 1942, and when this is accompanied by high fur prices and a depletion in merchandise stock at the posts, he is given a credit for future deliveries.

Thousand Hunters Go After Coyotes In West Oklahoma

By GLISSON WINKLER

WOODWARD, Okla., April 15.—(AP) — The cunning coyote, marauding by night and hiding by day, was flushed from his den yesterday by the mass attack of 1,000 hunters directed and aided by flying farmers and members of the Civil Air Patrol.

Although a high wind grounded the airplanes shortly after the hunt started, hunters tramped the country and bagged dozens of the animals, a serious menace to livestock and poultry growers in western Oklahoma.

The hunt will continue four days, extending southward along the Texas border to Frederick where the hunt ends Tuesday. There will be no hunting Sunday.

Realism Urged In Invasion News

NEW DELHI, April 15.—(AP)—The British-owned Bombay Times declared yesterday it appeared that the "publicity side of the Japanese offensive against Imphal has not been happily handled" and urged Allied military leaders to give the public a realistic picture of the enemy invasion of India.

"It is true that one southeast Asia command communique described it (the invasion) as a major offensive," the Times said, "but since then the tendency . . . has been to treat the attack as a rather irresponsible operation. . . ."

The new Moslem organ, Dawn, published somewhat similar editorial comment.

Allied military leaders, Dawn said, "cannot ignore the recent reverses in Assam, which must offer a disquieting picture against assurances of Allied might in the East."

Bidders Set Own Ceilings at Auction Of Scotch Whisky

LOS ANGELES, April 15.—(AP)—Bidders set their own ceilings with no thought of the office of price administration when the collector of customs auctioned several cases of Scotch whisky for non-payment of taxes or duty. LONDON, April 15—(CP)—A Coroner, returning a verdict of suicide in the death of a Cheshire farmer, said yesterday that "it was really a pathetic case of an over-worked farmer who could not cope with bookkeeping and government returns." Impersonation Of Officer Nets Three Prisoners

By BEN MALKIN
Winnipeg Free Press War Correspondent Representing the Combined Canadian Press

WITH THE 5TH ARMY ON THE ANZIO BEACHHEAD, April 13.—(Delayed)—CPI—When Cpl. H. Monash of the Bronx, New York, who fights with the combined American-Canadian combat group, impersonated an officer he ended by capturing three German S.C. (Schutzstaffel) men, who are the elite of the German war machine.

The story of his recent exploit was told me by Cpl. G. O. Comstock of Oakland, Calif.

"Monash is a German-Jewish refugee, 20 years old, who volunteers for every patrol," said Comstock. "On this particular night he was out by himself when he saw three dim shapes ahead.

"He told them to come towards him. They didn't move so he snarled: 'Obey when an officer orders.' Sure enough they obeyed. Monash pointed a tommy-gun at them and they were his."

V

I visited a forward detachment of a unit of this company commanded by a former regimental sergeant-major of the Toronto Scottish regiment. My guide was Sgt. J. McCrank of Edmonton. Pte. E. L. Stephens of Prince Albert, Sask., told me the men averaged 15 patrols monthly.

Eleanor Roosevelt

MY DAY

WASHINGTON—We had children in the White House with us over Easter, and the youngest members of our family have acquired a little white Easter bunny. To the children who read my daughter's story about "Scamper" in the White House several years ago, there will be no surprise in the fact that this new bunny was promptly named Scamper. He was brought by some Waves as an Easter gift to Fala. I was a little afraid that even Fala's good education might not have eradicated his natural instincts as far as rabbits are concerned, so their meeting was brief, and the bunny now resides in a box of his own.

We all attended the early Easter morning services at Arlington. This is always a very impressive ceremony to me. We walked out to the Unknown Soldier's tomb which, in a time of war, has a particularly poignant meaning. As the sentry walks up and down guarding the tomb, he must be thinking today of all the boys all over the world who will be represented in this war in this symbolic manner.

Here one should, without question, rededicate oneself to the efforts to lay foundations on which peace may be built by the generation that fights the war in the immediate post-war period. These young people will undoubtedly have to rebuild this torn and tattered world. The process will be painful and will call for boldness, self-sacrifice, courage and vision.

As each step is taken in this rebuilding process, we will see a peaceful world being shaped, or we will see the steps that lead to war being carved out again by personal and national greed and self-interest.

I am doing a broadcast today in the treasury department's grandmother series. I thought I was doing pretty well with thirteen grandchildren, but one of my co-grandmothers on this broadcast is far ahead of me. Like other grandmothers, I have been giving my grandchildren war savings stamps for birthday and Christmas presents ever since the war began, but since this is a special occasion, I think the youngest grandchild will have to have a bond of her own to mark it.

I must confess, however, that for the youngest members of my family I often try to have either a book or an inexpensive toy in addition to the savings stamps. Just lately I have been sent a charming little book called "Poffet and Pete," by Mrs. Margaret M. Pearson of Sidney, Australia, who has illustrated and printed the story herself. I gave it to one of the youngest grandchildren.

Food Fights For Freedom in Our VICTORY GARDENS Let's All Grow More in '44

Hints on Growing, Cultivation of Roses By Walter Wilson, Noted Grower

No plant rewards the grower with as much enjoyment and satisfaction for so little trouble as the rose. They are universal in their appeal and popularity; and surrender their beauty in the humblest surroundings.

Success with roses in this climate depends partly on the quality of the bushes, but more particularly upon the root-stock — that is: bushes budded on a root-stock or briar which is suitable for this climate.

The rose bushes which I prefer have quality and are specially grown on a briar or root-stock which has been found the most suitable for this climate, and if you follow the undermentioned directions you will be absolutely assured of success.

DELIVERY OF ROSES

When you take delivery of the rose bushes place them in some sheltered place, take off the moss from the roots and place the bushes in a pail of water for at least 24 hours before planting.

PLANTING

Care must be taken to avoid deep planting. Dig the holes square, not round, and preferably larger at the bottom than the top.

Cut off all broken or damaged roots. The roots should be spread out carefully and evenly spaced, with the roots pointing in every directions—do not cram the roots in straight in a small hole, the future of the plant depends on the new tiny root hairs that must be developed after planting. Do not put manure on the bare roots, but cover over and make the roots firm with an inch or two of soil by hand, fill up with a mixture of well-rotted manure and soil, or soil only; this should be tramped very firmly with the feet except the top two inches, which should be left fairly loose. When the planting is complete, the union of the stock, or, perhaps to make it more clear, we might say, the junction of the root-stock and the branches should be about 1½ or 2 inches below the surface of the soil (as per illustration).

It is also beneficial to draw a mound of light soil up over the bush, burying it completely to protect the branches from drying before growth begins. Allow this soil to remain until bush takes root. This will be about two weeks after planting. After removal of the soil, shade from direct sun until buds begin to leaf out. When the bushes begin leafing out it is a good plan to make sure the soil is well packed around the roots as during growth they sometimes become loose.

SOIL

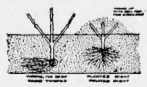

The soil which best suits the rose is a deep loam of a greasy nature. When this is not to be had and the soil is light, add stiff loam in addition to manure. If heavy clay, add sand or some gritty material. However, roses will thrive in most of our Alberta soils.

PREPARATION OF GROUND AND BEST SITUATION

A place sheltered from high winds, open, and not surrounded by trees should, if possible, be assigned to them; a S.E. or S.W. aspect is preferable, the beds being situated so as to receive the morning sun.

MANURING

Roses being gross feeders require a quantity of manure. Cow or sheep manure is the best, but any other manure may be used providing it is well decayed.

Liquid manure may be fed every two weeks until the end of August when all feeding should cease to allow the wood to ripen. Pulverized sheep manure at the rate of one pound to every gallon of water will be found beneficial.

WATERING

Should the spring or summer prove dry, it is necessary to water, and all newly planted bushes should be saturated weekly, not overhead, but around the main stem, preferably in the morning. Never wet the foliage in late evening.

SUCKERING

It will have been noticed by growers of Pike's Rose Bushes that the briar upon which they are budded throws very few suckers. However, all briar roots will sucker at times, and it is very important to get rid of these sucker or briar growth as speedily as possible. In cutting off the sucker growth do so close to the junction of the root, if allowed to grow it weakens the growth of the true plant. If the sucker growth is not cut off close to the root it will likely throw up a double sucker growth.

PRUNING

The illustration shows the proper method of pruning. All bedding roses require to be hard pruned the first spring after planting, cutting them back to two or in case of the stronger varieties, three eyes from the base. Make a point of pruning to an eye pointing outwards, thus leaving room for expansion. In subsequent years cut out all weak growth and cut down to four or five eyes. Do not prune in the fall. April is the time to prune.

When exhibition blooms are required it is advisable to cut back the bushes more severely which will encourage stronger growth.

A good rule to follow when pruning is: the weaker the bush the more it should be pruned and the stronger the bush the less pruning is necessary.

Hints on Planting Roses

Examine roots before planting. Cut back long straggling ones, or any that are bruised. A long tap-root should also be pruned back.

When planting, see that the union where the rose was budded on the stock, is about 1 to 2 inches below the surface of the soil.

Use a sharp knife for pruning, making a clean cut from below upwards. Cut to an "eye" facing outwards from centre of plant.

When pruning, cut down to an "eye" or leaf (every leaf has an "eye") not just below it, as the stem dies back to an "eye."

Vessel 7 Weeks Overdue on Trip

CAMPBELL'S COVE, P.E.I., April 15 — (CP) — Capt. Joseph Campbell of this village is more than seven weeks overdue on a voyage from New York to Miami aboard the motor vessel Dixie, with a crew of eight, it was learned here yesterday from relatives. The Dixie sailed Feb. 26, and since then no word has been received from the ship.

Save Fuel and Hot Water Unit

With conservation of both fuel and equipment a "must" in all Canadian households this year, the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating has issued a bulletin giving tested pointers on the wartime care of gas water heaters.

Burners, states the bulletin, should be brushed at least twice a year, thus assuring a clean, bright flame and the elimination of back-firing. Sediment, which if not drained off will impair the efficiency of the heater through its insulating effect, should be removed by opening the drain faucet at the bottom of the storage heater every month or two. Close the faucet as soon as the water clears.

Tanks as well as pipes should be properly insulated.

Water in the tank should never be heated above 140 degrees. Higher temperatures waste fuel and may injure the heater and the piping. In most cases this merely means setting the thermostat to the temperature desired.

Poland was granted religious freedom in 1573.

U.S. Home Front Accidents Killing More Than in War

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)—Accidents on the United States home front are killing and injuring many more persons than the war, Business Week reports in its current issue. Industrial accidents, the magazine says, killed 7,500 more Americans in the period from the United States entry into the war in December, 1941, to January of this year than died in the war. Permanently and temporarily disabled industrial workers outnumbered war casualties 60 to 1.

Daily War Map—Exclusively in The Edmonton Bulletin

The kind and disposition of German defenses against Allied invasion are mapped, above, from description given by Ralph E. Heinzen, former UP director in France, after 13 months' internment in Germany. As described by the Germans, main defenses consist of three barriers, ranging back from the coast to the Rhine. First comes the "Atlantic Wall", stretching from Hendaye, on the Spanish frontier to the Hague, Netherlands, armed with thousands of permanent cannon behind steel and concrete and containing more thousands of mobile guns. In coastal waters before this, say the Germans, are "millions" of mines and anti-assault craft steel obstacles. Similar marine and coastal emplacements extend all along the coast of Norway to Petsamo, Finland. Second defense barrier, behind Atlantic Wall, is deep anti-tank and anti-personnel system across the plains of Picardy, straddling the Somme river and roughly approximating the battle line of World War I. Third barrier of German defenses consists of recently overhauled Siegfried Line, protecting the Rhine, and the Maginot Line. Germans also boast of a Mediterranean Wall, protecting south coast of France, anchored in the Pyrenees and Alps. Inset photo shows great gun, said by Germans to be one of many along coast.

C.N. President Urges Workers To Buy Bonds

MONTREAL, April 15.—"Once more Canada is asking us to buy bonds, to 'Put Victory First', in our thinking and in our plans." This quotation is the introductory paragraph of a letter received by R. C. Vaughan, chairman and president, and which is today being distributed to the more than 94,000 employees in Canada of the Canadian National Railways, and National Railways Munitions Limited.

A copy of the letter will accompany every pay cheque and will reach every individual in the system employ, no matter how remote his location from a supervisory office, such as the thousands of men who work along the right-of-way to maintain tracks and structures.

REFERS TO WARNING

In his letter Mr. Vaughan refers to the warning issued by the prime minister in the Canadian House of Commons: "We are in times that are very grave indeed." Mr. Vaughan's message continues: "We cannot afford to ignore this warning, considering the source from which it comes. It is our duty to herd it, and support our government to the full in meeting the crisis. We can render this help effectively and immediately by throwing the full weight of our financial support behind the Sixth Victory Loan campaign. There is no longer any need to explain why we should subscribe to our victory loans. The fact that in the last loan 86.2 per cent of all the men and women of the Canadian National system, Trans-Canada Air Lines and National Railways Munitions Limited, invested a grand total of $8,594,600, is enough to make it plain that the purpose of victory loans are well understood.

"But there is reason to hope and reason to urge that both of these totals be increased in this, the Sixth Victory Loan campaign. We can do it if we will only realize the seriousness of the times: if we will 'Put Victory First'."

PAYROLL DEDUCTIONS

The chairman has authorized all regional officers to provide for payroll deductions for those employees who wish to purchase bonds through deferred payments, the payments in this instance extending until November next. In past campaigns, a considerable proportion of bond sales made throughout the Canadian National System has been effected through the payroll deductions covering a period of six months, and it is anticipated that this method will be used to an even greater extent for the Sixth Victory Loan campaign.

MEXICO CITY, April 15—(AP)—A large United States military plane crashed in northern Mexico last night and the 12 crew members were killed, the interior ministry announced.

Air Power

New Strategy Needs New Minds

—By Maj. A. P. de Seversky

A number of Congressmen who disapprove of some phases of present American strategy recently expressed the wish for "another Billy Mitchell" to speak up on the subject.

When one recalls how little General Mitchell's magnificent fight for air power accomplished in his own lifetime, their wish loses some of its point. War-making is one of the most conservative of human enterprises. New ideas are accepted in this sphere more slowly than in most others.

It required the outbreak of war and a series of disasters to drive home some of the lessons that Mitchell preached, and the most important of his demands — such as the formation of a separate and autonomous air department — are still far from realization.

de Seversky

The congressmen's search for "another Billy Mitchell" to crusade for changes in strategy is doomed to failure. For one thing, difficult as military crusading proved for Mitchell in time of peace, it would be a hundred times more so in wartime. For another, revisions in strategy in the midst of actual combat are the hardest to bring about. They are usually made only under the impact of shattering events of a disastrous character.

Wars are conducted on the basis of plans worked out in advance. They are conducted by the same men who did the planning. There is a direct and close integration of strategy and leadership, so that one can rarely be altered without altering the other. Those who clamor for basic changes in our strategy usually fail to understand that they are really asking for a change in military leadership. Strategy is not a casual thing, to be put on, taken off or altered like a garment.

NEW STRATEGY

A strategy that is genuinely new therefore calls for quite new minds. It can be set down as a rule, supported by the history of war-making, that a totally new strategy can never be developed or put into effect by the same men who created the old one which may have proved inadequate or fallacious.

The remarkable fact, indeed, is that we have succeeded in making several vital revisions without corresponding changes in leadership. In the Pacific, for instance, a conflict blueprinted along purely naval lines has been converted, under the pressure of defeats, into amphibious warfare. In Europe to cite another instance, the original invasion plans were made without relation to mastery of the air over the whole continent. Yet the responsible minds by this time have obviously accepted the revolutionary idea that the enemy's aerial strength must be broken before the invasion is launched. Such revisions can be set down as a victory for democracy, since public opinion, more than any other single factor, brought them about.

The classic doctrine has been that those who prepared a nation for war should shoulder the responsibility of putting their own preparations into practice. It is a doctrine that recommends itself to common sense. For centuries it worked well enough. There were constant innovations in weapons, but these did not require any revolutionary adjustment of strategic ideas while war was in progress. The only new military force born in these centuries was modern sea power. But that developed so slowly that strategy could be revised at leisure in the intervals between wars.

But in the present struggle the old doctrine has received a body blow. A brand new military force, one that revolutionizes the entire science of war, came to maturity almost overnight, just as a great war got started. The airplane, regarded as just another supporting weapon for land and sea forces, suddenly emerged as a totally new strategic force, capable of serving as the backbone of totally new types of strategy.

CONTINUOUS CONFUSION

That is why military thought has been in a state of continuous confusion as the war unfolded. Plans made before the conflict started, being carried out by the men who originally conceived them, fail to work out as expected. The new element in equation, strategic air power, throws all previous calculations out of alignment.

The war is still far from having been won and the prevalent optimism is a source of danger. But it does look as if we should be able to crush our enemies with the great weight of our men and machines on the basis of the old strategy. There are two possibilities, however, which may force a revolutionary revision of strategy, and with it also of leadership:

1—If the present strategy becomes so costly in men and machines that even America's immense resources are overtaxed and a change of strategy along less costly lines becomes unavoidable;

2—If the enemy should channel all his defensive efforts into air power, forcing us to change our offensive procedures accordingly. This is unlikely in Europe, where Germany is too deeply engaged to undertake such a major switch, but it is not impossible in the Pacific. If Japan, through sheer necessity, is obliged to shift to pure air power defence, our surface strategy would have to be radically reorganized with a view to taking control of Japan directly through the air.

TODAY'S MESSAGE

By Rev. E. CROSSLEY HUNTER, B.A., D.D.
Minister, Knox United Church, Winnipeg.

All Things New

WHEN does spring really begin? In his delightful volume "Peace in the Heart" Archibald Rutledge has a chapter on "Autumn", in which he insists that autumn is really the beginning of spring. It is the time when nature withholds for a while her energies and stores up her reservoirs of vitality so that there might be the new outburst of life in the spring. That is, what appears to us as the end of the year, one who understands nature more deeply sees as the beginning of a new year. So does God continually in the world of nature bring new beginnings out of old endings.

If I understand my Bible aright, it tells me this same truth over and over again: that God is forever building the new on the ruins of the old. The flood looked like an end, but in God's plan it was but a new beginning. When Israel was in bondage in Egypt—courage gone, leadership gone, hope gone—just when it seemed like an end to all their national life, Moses stood before Pharaoh and cried, "Thus saith the Lord, 'Let my people go.'" And they were off to a new beginning. Centuries passed, and again Israel was in bondage, this time in Babylon. Even song-had failed them, for they said to their captives, "How can we sing the Lord's song in this strange land?" Again it looked like the end, but ere long the remnant was marching back to Jerusalem, the city and the temple and the altar were being rebuilt and the prophet was singing, "The glory of the latter house shall exceed the glory of the former." It was another beginning. Then followed days of spiritual decline and atrophy. For five hundred years no prophet's voice was heard in Israel. Just when it seemed the end, a Jewish maiden walked the path of pain that led to motherhood, and on the air of a Judean night was heard the cry of a little babe, and "Unto us a son was born and a Saviour given." It was the first beginning of all. His enemies were sure it was the end when they hung Him upon a cross, but upon the third day the disciples were going everywhere with hearts aglow and faces luminous, saying, "The Lord is risen." Until we come to the last page of the Bible to find the promise, "Behold, I make all things new."

We who live in a dark day like this should have all this in the background of our minds. To be sure, we are coming to the end of some things. Everyone feels that. The days when nations can live in comparative isolation is ended. Never again will a nation build a wall about herself, as did China. The most hopeful thing upon the horizon today is this sense that we have come not so much to an end as to a beginning. Churchill is assuring us of that, and Anthony Eden, Herbert Morrison, General Smuts, and Archbishop Temple. And in America President Roosevelt is saying it, and Wendell Willkie and Dorothy Thompson, while our Prime Minister of Canada addressing the Canadian Club at Ottawa on "The New World Order". The sorrow and suffering of the world today may not be death pangs, but rather birth pangs of the new order.

This promise has a meaning also for individual hearts. When the prodical came to what seemed like the end—money gone, friends gone, even his good name gone—he said, "I will arise and go to my father." And the end for him was only the beginning. Many today, bereaved or frustrated and disappointed, dread to think of the future, but God can always bring a new beginning out of an old ending.

When the years have taken their toll of our physical strength, and old age is upon us, and friends speak softly, so we may not hear, that the end is not far off—what if God, who always loves new beginnings, should whisper to our hearts at the last candle-flicker of life, "My child, behold I make all things new"? Everything that we can learn about God in His Word and in His world helps us to believe that.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Hunter was a visitor to Edmonton April 12, when he spoke under the auspices of the Edmonton Ministerial Association and the Edmonton Council on Adult Education at First Presbyterian church.

Soviet Diplomacy

Recent Russ Diplomatic Triumph Over Japan Is of Great Advantage to Allies

This is the nineteenth of a series of articles by Sumner Welles, former United States Under Secretary of State, which appear exclusively each week in The Edmonton Bulletin.—EDITOR.

By SUMNER WELLES
Former United States Under Secretary of State

In previous articles I have referred to the realism which the Soviet government has demonstrated in the conduct of its foreign relations, and to the initiative which it has consistently maintained. Soviet diplomacy has been tough, resilient, and wholly successful in advancing the ends it has in view.

The technical perfection of the diplomatic skill shown by Stalin, Molotov, Litvinov and Maisky, and by the Foreign Office advisers associated with them, has been extraordinarily interesting to watch.

In no case has this been more evident than in the negotiation between the Soviet Union and Japan which has recently resulted in the convention providing for the renewal for five years, but on a restricted scale, of Japanese fishing rights in Russian territorial waters in the Pacific.

Sumner Welles

To those of us who have in recent years seen something of the hard bargaining which has periodically gone on between Moscow and Tokyo when it became time to renew these fishing agreements, and of the shrewd ability with which the Soviet government has defended its interests, the terms which Japan has this year been forced to accept by the Soviet Union are peculiarly significant.

TOKYO BROKE PLEDGE

When Matsuoka, then Japanese Foreign Minister, concluded in April, 1941, the neutrality pact with Russia, he entered into an additional agreement providing for the abrogation of all Japanese-held oil and mineral concessions in the Russian northern half of the island of Sakhalin within six months from that time. This latter agreement was never carried out by Japan. As "Isvestia," the government-organ in Moscow, has so truly said, the Japanese warlords believed in Hitler's promise that he would obtain a "lightning victory over Russia." They thought it safe to ignore Matsuoka's pledge.

Now, however, these Japanese rights have been turned back to the Soviet government, and all Japanese equipment installed in northern Sakhalin becomes Soviet property.

The new convention removes all restrictions previously placed upon Soviet citizens fishing in these Pacific areas. It returns to Russian control a large number of fishing allotments held until now by Japan. It prohibits the use by Japan of waters along the eastern coast of Kamchatka.

Finally, it prohibits Japan from obtaining any further oil, except stocks already stored, from northern Sakhalin, even by purchase, until after the war. And Japanese consulates in that region are immediately closed.

BLOW TO JAPANESE

I am unable to understand the reasoning of those who belittle the significance to us of this agreement. Japan depends upon the catches obtained from these fisheries for a large part of the food supply of her badly undernourished people. The extent of the fishing allotments has no been curtailed. Japan had previously obtained more than ten per cent of her oil supplies from the Russian half of Sakhalin. Her need for this oil, and for the coal she has also obtained from this region, has increased as her ability to transport such supplies from the overseas areas which she has occupied has been progressively diminished by American destruction of her tankers and freighters. The serious nature of the blow which the agreement she now has been forced to sign implies to her military strength is clear. Nor should we underestimate the importance to our own naval and military interest of the exclusion of all Japanese from northern Sakhalin and from the waters of Kamchatka, which are those nearest to the Alaskan coastline.

The vainglorious boasting of so many Japanese officials that the Soviet Union was in a tight squeeze between the Axis partners and that Japan was master of the northwestern Pacific is no longer heard. What the Japanese spokesmen are now trying to make their own people believe is that they need not fear a Russian attack. The prestige of Japan is fast vanishing. It is being deflated like a punctured balloon.

It is being destroyed both by the continued series of defeats which American naval and air forces have inflicted upon her, as well as by the crushing victories which the Soviet Union has gained over Japan's Axis partner, in whose ability to conquer the Japanese military dictatorship had placed so much of its hope.

GREAT AID TO ALLIES

The Russian diplomatic triumph is very great. It is of concrete advantage to the United States and to Great Britain at this time. By no means the least noteworthy feature of the announcement made in Moscow was the statement that the agreements concluded by the Soviet Union "take into consideration specific conditions created by the military operations of our Allies in the Pacific Ocean."

This statement might well be studied by those in this country who have for so long been attempting to create doubt as to the ulterior purposes of the Soviet government once the German Invaders had been hurled back out of Russian territory.

These skeptics might do well also to weigh the significance of the official Soviet statement issued by Foreign Commissar Molotov, when the Russian armies invaded Rumania, that the Soviet Union had no designs upon Rumanian territory, and no intention of changing the "existing social order" in that country.

THREE OBJECTIVES

By that statement the Soviet government achieved three basic objectives: it blocked the Nazi effort to foster the panic fear in the other Axis satellite countries that Russia intended to annex them and to force upon their peoples a Communist regime; it obtained the support of many Rumanians, Bulgarians and Hungarians, who have been longing to throw off the Axis yoke but would would not have been willing to co-operate with the Soviet armies had their own future independence been jeopardized by Russian victory; and it stilled—at least for the moment—the voices of those among the peoples of the United Nations who have been so persistently claiming that the principles of the Atlantic Charter, in so far as the Soviet government was concerned, were a dead letter.

Soviet diplomacy has proved itself hard boiled, but I have never seen it lose a trick in these last twelve months. Just as speed, initiative and an unswerving concentration upon the ultimate objective are assets of incalculable advantage in a military offensive, so are speed, initiative and an unswerving concentration upon the ultimate objective of inestimable value in diplomatic strategy, particularly at a moment when world conditions are changing very fast.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

PLAYOFFS may be headaches for the C.A.H.A. and officials of the various provincial organizations, but the powers that be in Canadian hockey can have little to complain about when confronted with cases such as the Lodestars, who long before now must be sorry they ever even heard of such a game, to say nothing of the Allan Cup and all the grief and toil that trophy stands for.

After settling the little matter of their own league title with Vancouver St. Regis and then thoroughly discouraging the Trail Smoke Eaters in an unofficial series for B.C. honors, the New Westminster boys headed for Calgary on March 11 and they have been tangled up in playdowns ever since and in the meantime also have done quite a sizeable spot of hitch hiking.

Prior to last night's game Lodestars appeared destined for points further east, but Port Arthur thus evidently decided to skate back into the picture and so now it seems to be a toss up as to which club will take on the Quebec Aces. But, win or lose, the New Westminsterites still have quite a few furlongs to traverse before checking in at the home fireside.

And so Pete Backor is at it again. From Port Arthur to St. Catherines Juniors was the first jump . . . then home and with Ports in the senior playoffs against Lodestars . . . then on to Winnipeg and next night to help Port Arthur Juniors against Trail . . . and now back with Port seniors again . . . and he scored a goal and assisted in another last night. But unless Pete's playoff luck takes a sudden change for the better, Lodestars will make the Allan Cup finals tonight.

HERE AND THERE . . .

TORONTO hockey fans are reported to be showing as much interest in the Trail and Oshawa teams as they have in any series played so far in the Gardens this year. It accordingly looks as though the first game in the Memorial Cup final which opens tonight will draw another sell-out crowd.

Incidentally the mysterious quality in the Trail Smokies' move to the present position as Western Canada's representatives has been given a great deal of attention. Certainly the Trail juniors' march has had its intriguing moments and they eliminated three good teams to get there. Oshawa Generals are always crowd pleasers and so the C.A.H.A. stands to cash in handsomely.

The showing of the U.S. Engineers against the Pat Bay Gremlins in Vancouver last night will of course be a disappointment to local hoop followers. And if the Engineers were clicking as usual, the Gremlins must be a stout club at that.

Norm Backer is rated an exceptionally high class performer and those who saw "Porky" Andrews potting field goals from all angles at the Arena when the "M" Depot turned back Saskatoon Flyers, will recall that gentleman really had something on the ball too. Engineers should do better tonight, despite the fact Gremlins are a high-powered aggregation.

Tony Conklin, whom baseball fans here will remember was out with Dodgers on Thursday night and it would not be surprising to see him in the box now and then this season. Joe Shandro, standby for Arrows for several years, also worked out with "Chuck" Henderson's squad. It begins to look too, as if a junior ball league is in the cards, with Arrows, Canadian Athletic Club and Dodgers certain starters.

Coast Girls Beaten 30-24

Calgary Wittichens Surprise Hedlunds

CALGARY, April 15. — (CP) — Calgary Wittichens, women's Alberta basketball champions, sprang the greatest upset of the current hoop season when they handed the Dominion champion Vancouver Hedlunds a 30-24 setback in a thrill-packed exhibition tilt at Central auditorium Friday night.

Hedlunds were weakened by the absence of two of their mainstays, Rita Bell and Kathie Smith who remained in Winnipeg.

Elsie Alello paced the winners' attack with 11 points and her sparkling performance during the contest had the near-capacity crowd on edge throughout. She was given able assistance from Dorothy Wood who accounted for eight points and gave a smart all-round display. Joan MacArthur was the standout of the coast squad, accounting for 11 points.

After trailing Hedlunds by four points throughout the first half Wittichen's put on a great rally at the opening of the second session to score three straight baskets and take the lead which they never relinquished during the remainder of the tilt.

Hedlunds got away to a good start and held a 13-8 margin at the end of the first quarter due to some great work on the part of Joan MacArthur. Witts rallied in the second quarter to come within three points of their rivals with the score standing at 17-14 at half time. In the third quarter, Wittichens lost no time in going after baskets and halting Hedlunds attack, took a 24-21 lead by the end of the session. Continuing their close checking, Witts went on to completely baffle Vancouver and finish up with a six-point margin.

2 Titles Settled on Final Night

Two K.O.'s in School Bouts

One of Half-Dozen

HIGHLIGHTED by two knockouts scored by Adam Odynsky and John MacDairmid, both of Victoria high, 21 three titles were settled Friday on the last night of the three-day city school boxing and wrestling championships staged at Westglen gym. A capacity crowd of 1,000 fans witnessed last night's action-packed finals.

Victoria captured top honors for the school, taking 16 crowns while Westglen, Lord Taylor, Grandin and Garneau won four each, Calder and Norwood two apiece, St. Alphonsus two and Glenora, Spruce Avenue, Eastwood, Cromdale, Sacred Heart, Jasper Place, St. Joseph's and Donald Ross one each.

Of the 21 titles decided last night, five were wrestling and the remainder were boxing. Of the 16 boxing, 13 went the full three rounds for decisions, two were knockouts and one was defaulted. Then bout between Gordon Johnson of Grandin and Norman Peers of H. A. Gray was an additional one added to the 20 scheduled finals.

ODYNSKY IMPRESSIVE

Most impressive boxer of the evening was Adam Odynsky who scored a 60-second knockout over Ted Costello of St. Joseph's to win the 135 pound high school championship.

Odynsky displayed better style and more activeness as the show progressed and although he only landed one real blow, it was a right haymaker that sent Costello to the canvas for the count.

The other knockout was scored in the third round by John MacDairmid over Bob McKee of Westglen. The first round of this fight was close and full of action, but in the second MacDairmid showed a little superiority and floored McKee for the count of nine. McKee came back strong later in the same session and the two boxers gave the fans some real excitement.

McKee tired in the third, however, and was down for the count of nine twice again before MacDiarmid let go with the punch that sent Bob out and the gym in an uproar.

Two St. Alphonsus boys staged one of the closest boxing matches of the night. It was for the 112 pound title between Francis MacDonald and Jack Devlin and both battled strongly from the opening gong in each round. There was little to choose if any of the three sessions and both fought bitterly, but MacDonald won the judges decision. Each slugger had a bleeding nose before the go was over.

COWLEY WINS VERICIT

The old school rivalry hit the roof when Jim Cowley of Westglen and Albert Boyd of Victoria battled for 118 pound class high school honors. Cowley, a more polished and cooler boxer, won the verdict. Boyd didn't let the title go without putting up a real scrap.

Little Ronnie Mooney of Spruce Avenue and diminutive son of Bennett really made leather fly in their battle for the 70 pound elementary school championship. Ronnie captured the decision, but both glove tossers, each a winner on the two previous nights, put everything they had into the bout.

Irving Lerner of Victoria gave away 16 pounds to School-mate Roy Archer in the heavyweight fight, but after dropping the first round he made good use of a left hook to whittle Archer down in the other two sessions and won the crown.

High school bouts again featured the wrestling. Eric MacDonald and Ross Cawley both of Westglen put on an exciting match and MacDonald needed everything he had to win over Cawley by a close decision.

Following are the results of last night's finals:

Priddy and Clift Missed

Nats Have Best Pitching And Worst Infield in History

By HARRY GRAYSON

COLLEGE PARK, Md., April 15.—Better minds long have held pitching to be 75 per cent of baseball. Such an authority as Connie Mack has credited the handcuffing department with being as much as 90 per cent of the business at hand. Indeed, on many a day between Old Hoss Radbourne and Spud Chandler the greenest hand would have known it could amount to 100 per cent.

Idaho Anglers Not Beaten Yet

CALDWELL, Idaho, April 15.—(AP)—Members of the Rod and Gun Club here don't propose to be deprived of their angling this year because of gasoline restrictions on pleasure driving — not if this plan works:

The club has planted 25,000 trout in the municipal park pond. Come August, they'll remove the fish to irrigation ditches which thread the town and surrounding area, then cast for them from their front lawns.

But is just what extent pitching can carry an outfit pretty much on its own shortly will be established, for the Washington, club training here has the best all-around staff in its history, and the worst infield.

The Nationals have so much efficient pitching that Gilberto Torres, a six-foot Cuban who has aged 19 games in the Southern Association last season, is being drilled at second base and in the outfield.

The Colorado Claro is an accomplished hand with a bat in his hands, and base hits are among the reservists are something the Nats happen to need.

TWO INFIELD PROBLEMS

Washington has a half dozen established right-hand pitchers — Dutch Leonard, Early Wynn, Roger Wolff, John Niggeling, Milo Candini and Alex Carrasquel— and a remarkable left-hander on the small side, Milton Haefner. Not to mention Vernon Curtis, a right-hander for whom Clark Griffith paid Atlanta $30,000, Wilfrid Lefebvre, the former Red Sox southpaw; and Santiago Ulrich, another six-foot Cubanola who can't be scratched off the list.

The Senators should be able to get the other side out provided there is not too much leakage in the infield.

The Griffmen are set in the infield only at first base and shortstop, and Joe Kuhel hit no more than .213 for the White Sox in 1943. Johnny Sullivan will do the hitting stop. While his batting average was only .268, the Irish kid from Homewood, Ill., has the happy faculty of batting in runs.

Second base is at the moment in charge of George Myatt, who couldn't get on base for the Giants.

The hope at third is Luis Suarez, a 175-pound Havana Filler with a fine pair of hands but with a poor batting stroke.

NEED ORTIZ' LONG BALL

Old Ossie Bluege may have to play there himself, for Billie Layne, who three campaigns back topped the Southern Association in batting, probably will be limited to a couple of games a week by a leg ailment which accounts for a medical discharge from the Army following two years of service. Eddie Bulka, young, big, strong and 4-F, is in the party as a backer-up for Kuhel and a pinch-hitter.

Fermin Guerra, a 160-pound Cuban who has been in the Washington chain for several years, may beat the ancient and honorable Rick Ferrell out of the first-string catching assignment.

Stanley Spence, George Washington Carver and Jake Powell give Washington speed in an outfield Roberto Ortiz, the biggest Cuban of them all, could make much more formidable by confining to his his long ball.

Had not the armed forces taken Jerry Priddy and Harlond Clift, Old Fox Griffith really would mean it when he speaks of winning his first pennant in more than a decade.

As things are, it won't do for the pitchers to get discouraged.

Extra Clash Will Decide Title Tonite

PORT ARTHUR, April 15.—(CP)—Port Arthur Shipbuilders, with a tight defence and greater speed, trimmed New Westminster Lodestars 7-2 here Friday night to force the western Canada senior hockey finals into an eighth and deciding game here Saturday night. Each won three games in turn, the other was a 5-5 overtime tie.

Winner tonight will meet Quebec Aces in the Allan cup finals. In previous encounters Shipbuilders won the second and fourth games 6-1 and 5-4 and Lodestars the third, fifth and sixth, 2-1 8-4 and 6-2.

Port Arthur began slowly, moved into a goal lead in the first period, outscored the westerners 3-2 in the middle session and completely controlled the play in the final 20 minutes when they netted three more markers.

In one of the toughest western finals in years, Lodestar Bay champions have only outscored their British Columbia opponents 30-28 in seven games.

In their earlier victories Shipbuilders depended largely on their key forward trio of Stan Roberts-son-Norm Larson-Waikko Koivisto but last night Don Eaton, veteran Port Arthur forward, led the attack.

Eaton snared two goals and assisted in another while Shipbuilder Port Arthur counters going to Pete Backor, Larson, Norm Wright and Bill McKenzie.

Maurice Duffy netted Lodestars first counter while defenceman Joe Gollatt of Port Arthur rested in the penalty box for tripping and the other went to Johnny Ursakl.

Should the teams be deadlocked after regulation time tonight they will "play-to-the-finish," the official said.

Walter McIntyre, husky Lodestar defenceman, drew two minor penalties late in the third period for high sticking in the final minutes a near free-for-all developed.

About 1,500 attended.

Cage Secretary Denies Regina Was 'Frozen Out'

VANCOUVER, April 15—(CP)—E. W. Bowering of Vancouver, secretary of the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association, in an interview last night denied a charge that the Saskatchewan team had been "frozen out" of the Dominion senior women's playoffs and added Saskatchewan had been "Begged and begged to come in."

Mr. Bowering was commenting on a claim by Norman Hamilton, manager of Regina Weston Vits, Saskatchewan champions, that his quintet was "frozen out" and could not even get an exhibition game with Vancouver Hedlunds.

The Dominion secretary replied that the Saskatchewan request for a playoff berth was not received until Hedlunds were on the train en route to Winnipeg for the finals against Altomahs. A suggestion that the Saskatchewan branch get in touch with Hedlunds and arrange an exhibition series was ignored, Mr. Bowering said.

The Saskatchewan branch did not pay any affiliation fee last year, Mr. Bowering continued. The deadline for notification from branches of playoff entries is Jan. 1. Mr. Bowering said he sent several requests between Jan. 1 and March 31 to the Saskatchewan branch asking if playoff entries were planned and received no replies.

U.S. Engineers Drop First Of Cage Series to Gremlins

VANCOUVER, April 15.—(CP)—Patricia Bay, R.C.A.F. Gremlins defeated Edmonton U.S. Engineers 57-34 here Friday night in the first game of the senior men's western Canada finals. Second game of the two-of-three series will be played here Saturday night and the third, if necessary, Monday night.

Gremlins, defending Canadian champions, grabbed a 13-9 lead over the Alberta champions, in the first quarter and increased the margin to 32-17 by half-time. In the third session the British Columbians went ahead 47-31 and in the final frame outscored the American soldiers 10-3.

About 1,000 fans saw Norm Baker of Gremlins put on a great foul-shot-throwing display getting seven of these. He counted six field goals to lead all scorers with 19 points. Porky Andrews got 14 for Victoria and Ralph Pay 13.

For the U.S. Engineers John Gullekson and Harley Miller each notched nine points and Bob Chamness and Earl Ayers scored seven apiece.

Much of the sting was taken out of the American attack when Engineers' two high point makers, Gullekson and Miller, were banished early in the third quarter after having been credited with four personal fouls.

A highlight of the game was the shooting of Andrews, former University of Oregon star, now in the R.C.A.F. Andrews' shot baskets from all angles.

The Canadians were guilty of 11 personals compared with 15 against the Americans but they were distributed wider among the Gremlins and the British Columbia champions did not lose any players through the penalty route.

Bissell Girls Win Exhibition

Spruce Grove girls were unable to floor a complete team for the semi-final in the James Blyth basketball trophy playoffs last night and the game accordingly went to Bissell by default.

An exhibition fixture, however, was played and it was won by Bissell 51-16. The second in the semi-final between these two teams is scheduled for next Friday and the winner will meet the Y.W.C.A.

Morey Rimstad May Be Released By U.S. Army

FORT SHERIDAN, Ill., April 15—(AP)—Roy M. (Morey) Rimstad, centre of the Buffalo American League baseball team through the United States army reception centre here Friday but officers said there was a possibility he might be released although no request for his discharge yet had been received.

Rimstad, a Canadian subject, was inducted at Detroit this week. Regis O'Brien, attorney for the Buffalo club, questioned the validity of his induction, asserting Rimstad had never registered for United States selective service and had been ordered to report April 30 to Canadian authorities at Edmonton.

Capt. Fred H. Dettmar, public relations officer, said Rimstad has made no protest since reporting here and officers therefore were unaware of his peculiar situation.

"We'd be glad to assist him in taking his case to the inter-Allied board in Detroit which handles such affairs," said Capt. Dettmar, adding there probably would be little difficulty in obtaining Rimstad's release from the United States army to permit his induction in the Canadian armed forces.

Orders for his discharge, however, would have to come from the adjutant general in Washington, and no such order has been received, Dettmar said.

It was understood here that Rimstad's medical category—determined as the result of examination following his call-up in the ordinary way last year—was too low to permit his being taken into the Canadian Army at present. Should be the case, it would be quite in order for him to apply for and obtain permission to go to the United States and play for the Buffalo Bisons.

NEW YORK, April 15.—Out of the night comes Bruce Sloan of Wichita, Kan., as a possible replacement for Manager Mel Ott in the New York Giants' right field. Brown-haired, fair-skinned Sloan comes up with a bit of a paunch at the ripe age of 29 as a major league rookie to replace the great Ott, who came up to the Giants when in his middle teens.

Sloan came out of the night, because it was the combination of darkness, arc lights and curved balls that stymied his attempted climb toward the majors a decade ago—back in 1934.

He tried professional baseball in 1932, '33 and '34 with Oklahoma City of the Texas League; but his inability to hit curve ball pitching at night sent him back to the semi-pros, where he remained until last season.

HIT .365 AT LITTLE ROCK

DURING those long years with the semi-pros—with the Duncan Halliburton Cement Company team of Duncan, Okla., and three other nearby semi-pro outfits—Sloan conquered the night. He learned to hit curve ball pitching under the arcs. He changed his bat, using a lighter one; he changed his stance, so that he crowded the plate; and he learned to hit only with his wrists — like Ken Keltner of the Cleveland Indians—using a short, fast side-sweep.

Last June, Bruce deserted the semi-pros and accepted an outfield berth with Little Rock, Ark., of the Southern Association. He knew there would be plenty of night ball with Little Rock; but he knew also that he was ready. During the first five weeks, he hit .532; and he wound up the season with a batting mark of .365. This attracted major league scouts.

Sloan, a portly fellow who packs 200 pounds on a 5 ft.-10 inch frame, is an agile fly hawk despite his diminutive paunch. No one ever questioned his fielding ability, and he promises, "I'll knock 'em dead with my daylight batting, and do alright now in the few night games."

AT 29, Sloan is ready to become a regular on his first major league team if Manager Ott should be taken into service as a 1-A; or if Ott should be forced from right field to the sidelines because of a stomach ailment.

During a chat in the Polo Grounds dugout before Thursday's game with the Yankees, while-uniformed Sloan said, "I felt like quitting baseball after my bad season at night with Oklahoma City in '34. But, I just couldn't quit—although I knew I could make more in the outer fields . . . I'm an accountant, you know. So I played along with the semi-pros, meanwhile studying my weakness against curves at night.

"Now, though I'm a rookie at 29, I hope I get a chance to prove that I can hit about as good as anybody in the business. I'm a south-paw wrist-hitter now, and I have no fear of anything any pitcher can throw—day or night."

Sloan is 4-F because of high blood pressure. We hope his afflictes do not explode if he is assigned a regular berth in the Giants' outfield.

Ford Now Holds 100-Metre Record

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 15.—(AP)—Yale's Alan Ford had a new gem today in the crown he holds as king of the spring swimmers—the world's 100-metre freestyle record.

The "Balboa Bullet," who began swimming at his home in the Panama Canal zone almost as soon as he could walk, was clocked at 55.9 seconds for the distance in a test against time Thursday at the Yale pool. The old record of 56.4 seconds was set here in February, 1936, by Peter Fick of the New York A.M.

Devil Diver Has Top Weight Today

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)—Devil Diver, five-year-old handicap star in the stable of Mrs. Payne Whitney, is the top weighted thoroughbred at 129 pounds in today's $10,000 Excelsior Handicap of a mile and sixteenth at Jamaica.

Winner of the Paumonok Handicap at the Long Island plant, the son of St. Germans is getting added attention from early bettors because of the small field. Devil Diver always has done his best in relatively lonesome circumstances.

Only Tom Heard's Boyay, at 114 pounds; the Millbrook stable's Alex Barth; Joe W. Brown's Brownie and Mrs. Tilyou Christopher's Grey Wing have been named to oppose the Greenfree charger.

CANADIAN SPORTSHOTS

By SYD THOMAS

TORONTO, April 15.—(CP)—A sport column may be a strange place to break the news, but the Canadian west has been invaded. We're talking about the sport front, where United States teams are establishing spearheads in several directions. First it was the U.S. Army Engineers from Edmonton, who cleaned up in the prairie province, and now the Americans have entered two teams in the five-squad Edmonton baseball league for this summer.

Besides the regular frontal attacks by the two teams the Americans also will adopt some infiltration tactics, sending their surplus talent to bolster the "Canadian" teams in the loop. That's the latest war news from the western front.

Coach confesses:

Squaring his broad shoulders, coach Eddie Lauzon of Port Arthur Flyers takes the blame for his team's defeat by Trail Smoke Eaters in the western junior finals. Fred (Fort William Times-Journal) Edwards quote him as saying: "I'm proud of the boys. Individually we had a better club than Trail, and I can only assume the reason for our defeat lay in the coaching."

Incidentally:

Bill Durnan gained three pounds during the current N.H.L. puck season. Dick Irvin had a reason for contending he showed "Durnan had practically nothing to do all season. He just loafed along and fattened up." He usually handled fewer pucks than opposing goalies at that. . . . The best hockey teams in Canada are on the sidelines, watching lesser outfits struggle for the Allan and Memorial cups. Herb Manning says in the Winnipeg Tribune. That includes Winnipeg Army, "still intact although the army removed its personnel from hockey competition three months ago."

Nursing is here, and fishermen are getting ideas. The Grey and Bruce county (Ontario) speckled trout fishing competition gets underway April 29 to start off the season.

"Most Important Season"

Cavarretta Appears Headed For Best Year With Cubs

CHICAGO, April 15.—(AP)—Phil Cavarretta, regarded by his Chicago fans as the most underrated player in baseball, appears headed for his due recognition this season.

Starting his 10th year with the Cubs, the fiery, intense Italian is dean of the squad at the age of 26 this old-timer status passed to him when Stan Hack, an 11-year veteran, retired from the game this year to remain on his Oregon ranch.

"It's a cinch that Cavarretta will have his most important season with the Cubs, no matter how he hits," says Manager Jimmy Wilson. "He's our steady man in the infield."

The first baseman finds himself in an odd situation.

He is a 10-year big leaguer, yet just a "kid" in the Cubs' war-time flock. He is the only member of the infield expected to open the season with major league experience. Rookies Tony York at third, Bill Schuster at short and Don Johnson at second—all in their early 20's—are the fellows the seasoned Cavarretta will have to steady.

The nearest approach to a .300 batting mark Cavarretta has had was his .291 last year. But he's always been a fine timely hitter ever since he slugged a home run in his first game with the Cubs to beat Cincinnati 1-0.

"I'm eyeing .300 this year," he declares authoritatively.

Cavarretta was only 16 and just out of Chicago's Lane tech high school when Charlie Grimm, then Cub manager, signed him up. He was sent to Peoria, Ill., in the old Central league and in his first game he banged a single, double, triple and homer in four plate trips. Later he was sent to Reading, Pa., and then recalled by the Cubs in the fall for keeps.

Tribute Is Paid To Jim Jeffries On 69th Birthday

BURBANK, Calif., April 15. — (AP)—Nine hundred spectators in big Jim Jeffries' boxing arena paid him tribute Thursday night, his 69th birthday.

The former heavyweight champion of the world, from 1899 until his retirement in 1905, was smeared with lipstick as photographers' flashlights caught him accepting a golden boxing glove mounted on a pedestal and autographed by many of his friends.

Jim also received a birthday cake trimmed with a red lantern on which was inscribed a big "69." Ole Olsen, stage and screen comedian, made the presentation, and Grace McDonald of the films placed a jewel-studded crown atop the former ring warrior's bald head, then kissed him.

Jim was visibly moved. All he could say was that he was glad all his old friends were there for the occasion. He has lived in Burbank for 40 years. His area is devoted to amateur boxing matches, and there were several of them on the program.

Swedish Stars Would Come If Plane Provided

STOCKHOLM, April 15.—(AP)—Arne Andersson and Gunder Haegg, Sweden's middle distance stars, told reporters Friday they would be glad to compete in the United States' national A.A.U. track and field championships June 17 and 18 but only on condition air transportation be provided for them each way.

Andersson said he could not remain away from his job for more than a month and suggested he could leave Stockholm by air on June 10 and arrive in time for the meet, returning home about July 10.

"If Andersson goes, I'll go too," said Haegg, "but I don't want to go alone." He also specified air travel was the deciding factor.

Dan Ferris, secretary of the National A.A.U. said Friday in New York that his organization had communicated with the two Swedish stars during the winter regarding the possibility of coming to the United States for the championship meet at New York in June.

Haegg appeared in a series of races in the United States last summer.

Haegg lowered the world record for the mile run to 4:04.6 in Stockholm Sept. 4, 1942 and Andersson was clocked in 4:02.6 on the same track July 1, 1943.

Reserve Army Wins Applause Of Big Crowd

Hundreds of Edmontonians Friday night watched the Reserve Army give a convincing demonstration of its role in the defence of Canada. Two units took part, and others will put on demonstrations in succeeding weeks. Those taking part last night were No. 4 Armored Divisional Troops Company, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, under command of Capt. T. W. Cogland, M.C., and No. 1 Armored Divisional Workshop Company, Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps under command of Capt. C. E. Garnett.

After gathering at the Market Square the troops moved off at 8:30 p.m. on 100 street to Jasper avenue, then west to 101 street, north to 102 avenue, west to 102 street and south to the Cenotaph, where a salute was given.

There, from the Cenotaph, the troops marched to the corner of Jasper avenue and 101 street, where the demonstration was given.

The troops were accompanied by a military band and two bugle bands.

The demonstration attracted many hundreds of spectators, who lined the sidewalks on both sides of 101 street south to Macdonald Drive. Many others were perched on window sills and atop of buildings and looking out of windows of nearby buildings.

A public address system carried to the spectators a description of what was being done, of the types of units putting on the display and how they, and the Reserve Army as a whole, fitted into the general defence picture.

There was a replica of the changing of the guard, one of the snappiest and most impressive of military functions.

Trucks and other equipment of the 41st Reserve Brigade Group were on the ground and assisted in the display. On many occasions the work of the units brought forth applause and cheers from the large crowd.

This was the first of a series of such demonstrations to bring to the attention of the public the work of the Reserve Army.

School Pupils Will Take Part In Festivities

Hundreds of Edmonton Public school pupils will take part in the first of a series of annual spring festivals commencing April 20. The children will assemble in centrally located schools to take part in folk dancing, gymnastics, choral speech and music, with other children from neighboring schools.

Members of the recently-formed Edmonton Public School Festival Association have completed arrangements for the festivals and the first of these are scheduled to take place at Garneau school gymnasium, on the morning of Thursday, April 20, and Friday morning, April 21, at King Edward school.

Entries for the events to be held at Garneau have been received from King Edward, Rutherford, Ritchie, King Edward Park, Garneau, Queen Alexandra and Allendale.

A special feature of the intermediate music program to be held at King Edward April 21 will be several selections by the school orchestras of Queen Alexandra and Garneau schools.

It is planned to display examples of the art work done by pupils from the two South Side zones at Garneau school.

More entries have already been forwarded to the program committee. Many teachers have entered their pupils in two or three events. New Child Welfare Group Is Planned

A new provincial child welfare commission, to be set up under the revised and consolidated Child Welfare Act, is to be named and operating before May 1, it was announced Saturday by Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of public welfare.

Head of the new commission will be C. B. Hill, superintendent of child welfare, whose appointment is automatic under the act.

The group will consist of "probably four" members, Dr. Cross said. It has been recommended that Miss Helen McArthur, who will become superintendent of public health nurses in Alberta on July 1, should be a member of the commission.

The other two members of the commission will be officials whose departments are located in the Administration Building, it was stated by the minister. This arrangement will facilitate meetings of the commission, which may be called at any time to consider matters brought up for decision.

Light Showers Forecast For City

More light rain fell in the city Friday. Showers occurred between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. and again between 10 p.m. and 11.

The temperatures remained mild throughout the day and overnight with a maximum of 55 degrees, and the lowest reading 36. Official reading at 8:30 a.m. Saturday was 40 degrees.

Highway Extension To Be Continued

Extension of improvements on the Edmonton-Whitecourt highway will be continued this year, it was stated Saturday by Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works.

Last year, the highway had been rebuilt and improved as far as Glenevis, and this year, this will be continued, as far as manpower and other considerations permit.

Mr. Fallow expressed doubt that the road between Whitecourt and the Athabasca River crossing, some 30 miles, would be included in the 1944 program.

The Edmonton-Whitecourt highway will eventually become part of a proposed "cut-off" to the Peace River country. It has been suggested that such a link would join the present Peace River Highway at Valleyview.

Edmonton Man Is Detained by Winnipeg Police

Detained by Winnipeg police as he left a transcontinental train in the Manitoba capital, Friday evening, Russell G. Garnett, Edmonton, was taken into custody for the second time within a week.

He was arrested by American authorities in Edmonton just three days earlier, when found to be in possession of U.S. Army stores, according to city police.

Garnett, according to Winnipeg police Saturday morning, had in his possession $1,700 in travellers cheques, the property of Oscar Landry, St. Regis hotel, Edmonton.

Edmonton police were informed last Tuesday of the theft of the travellers cheques by Benjamin Melanson, St. Regis hotel. Investigating officers learned that several men had been in Landry's room, and that Melanson had taken the cheques, together with $5520 in cash, and placed them with the night clerk the previous evening.

Apparently both money and cheques were on a dresser in the room at the time the cheques were picked up. The money was not touched. Garnett, however, when searched, was not in possession of the cheques. But he was taken into custody by American authorities for being in possession of two parkas.

Police learned later that Garnett had left the city. Winnipeg police were notified, and they arrested Garnett, still in possession of the cheques, as he changed trains. He was on his way to Toronto, it was stated.

Legion President Says

Bright, New Canada Is Possible With Organization, Leadership

By JACK DeLONG

A bright, new Canada of economic and social well-being is not only possible but inevitable providing the men and women who sacrificed themselves unselfishly to attain victory in the Second and First Great Wars organize with determination and intelligence and develop a leadership of the highest integrity.

That's the optimistic prediction of Harold E. Tanner, B.Sc., B.A., hard-working, pleasant-mannered president of Edmonton Branch No. 24 of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L.

And Mr. Tanner feels equally certain that the Canadian Legion is destined to play a great if not the leading part in the struggle to win a more glorious Canada in the post-war period, even as the steadily mounting membership from veterans of two great wars have fought with glorious courage to win the bitter struggles on the battlefield against the enemies of mankind.

"The Legion," said Mr. Tanner, "occupies a position unique in the history of Canada. Never before in Canada has the mobilization of man and womanpower in the nation been so extensive. As a result the Legion is certain to become a very powerful influence in the vital matters of rehabilitation and reconstruction.

"While service men and service women still have many problems that are peculiar to service personnel only, under conditions of total mobilization the Legion can never again be viewed as representative of just a certain minority of the citizens of Canada.

LEADING PART

"And I believe the Legion is further destined to play a leading part in the building of the new and better Canada, because it is developing a leadership of outstanding men. All that is needed is for the Legion to maintain men of high integrity at the head of the organization and I am sure there is

Should a limited mosquito abatement campaign be undertaken this year?

THE ANSWERS

HARRY JOHNSON, clerk: Undoubtedly some attempt should be made to start the work of abatement of the nuisance in this territory. I am certain that good results would follow from a campaign conducted within the city limits.

WILLIAM MULCAHAY, caretaker: I understand that one of the big drawbacks to starting a campaign this year is the impossibility of getting spraying equipment. Surely it is possible to improvise some of this equipment, at least sufficient to carry on a limited campaign this spring. We do not want a recurrence of last year's plague.

LEN LORDON, salesman: Mayor John W. Fry is taking the right step in calling in the community leagues and other interested organizations to co-operate in the campaign against the mosquito. I am sure that the necessary manpower will be available if the leadership is forthcoming to stage the campaign.

Set Objective In Coming Loan

Aircraft Repair Ltd., has set an objective of $150,000 for the Sixth Victory Loan, it was announced Saturday by company officials.

The drive will be under the chairmanship of J. A. Macdougall. Other members of the campaign committee are Jack Moar, H. M. Gibb, C. B. Hornby, Robert Torrance and Alex Cunningham, who will act as campaign manager.

The active canvassing in the campaign will start after a rally to be held in the mess hall at the plant at which all branches of the armed services will be present. The band of No. 4 I.T.S., R.C.A.F. will attend this rally.

City of Edmonton Quota In Drive Is $5,100,000; Campaign Starts April 24

"The objective for the province of Alberta for the Sixth Victory Loan, which opens on April 24, is the same as for the Fifth Loan last October, namely $37,000,000, but it will be necessary to obtain more purchasers among the public generally and a higher average sale on account of a definite lessening of Armed Forces personnel in the province." Fred E. Osborne, chairman of the National War Finance Committee for Alberta, announced Saturday.

The quota for general sales in Edmonton is set at $5,100,000. Although the quota had been set at $5,100,000 the same as last year, it was expected that the $5,856,555 actual sales total achieved in the Fifth Victory Loan would be exceeded.

In all other campaigns there had been special names quotas. This is now operated on a provincial basis, and the result of the special names canvas will not be announced until the close of the campaign.

Only the general sales quota of $5,100,000 will affect the general public, and this quota is to be raised from payroll savings, salary deductions, and direct purchases from salesmen or banks. Two hundred and fifty workers representing every unit in the province who met in Calgary recently unanimously agreed that, in view of the greater financial needs of the government for war purposes on the even of the opening of the second front, Albertans would not be satisfied with anything less than the total sales made during the Fifth Loan campaign which were slightly over $42,100,000. "This, therefore, becomes the unofficial objective which we hope to exceed," said Mr. Osborne.

SPECIAL EMPHASIS

Special emphasis will this time be laid on the general sales section and the payroll section.

To avoid confusion all Special Names and Armed Forces subscriptions will be pooled provincially

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

One gets a very clear idea of how unnecessarily cautious some are when one mother writes: "I even have to take everything from my boy on which he can pull himself up, as he tries to get up on his feet."

So what! one feels like remarking. One wonders what fears motivate a parent to throttle a 7-months-old child so he cannot practice for his next stage of development, walking.

This same child, his mother, Mrs. A. M., explains, weighs only 16½ pounds and has two teeth. "He loves his solid foods," she writes, "but I have to fight to force him to take even six ounces of milk by bottle. His regular formula is 32 ounces of milk, four of water and 3 tablespoons of maltose."

By all means let the child pull himself to his feet. He'll do that for several months before he will be able to stand unsupported.

You might try a change from fresh milk to evaporated milk, offering it only ounces (one tall can) with enough water to make 32 ounces and the present amount of maltose to every twice as much. Try offering some part of each feeding by cup as he may enjoy this more than he does the bottle feedings.

If you must reduce the milk further, then make use of solid foods well fortified with milk. I have a feeling you are somewhat inflexible, and do not try to adjust ordinary rules to fit your own baby's needs.

Mrs. V. M. W. writes, "I wonder what the trouble is when I read what tyrants children are about eating. I wonder if it isn't the attitude a mother has when she feeds her baby? (The mother above who "fights" to force her baby to take milk, is a good illustration of what not to do).

"I have 3 children," she continues, "the oldest 3½ years, the youngest 15 months. They have always eaten all kinds of meat, vegetables, fruit, cereals and nearly 4 cups of milk a day.

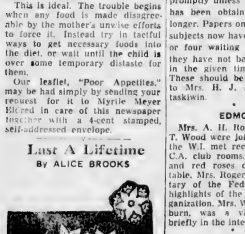

"They are healthy, play hard and are hungry at mealtimes. They eat what I put before them. I have never made any fuss about what they ate or how much. But if they don't eat a reasonable amount they get no opportunity to fill up between meals with candy, cake or other sweets. They have been expected to accept their food as part of their routine."

This is ideal. The trouble begins when any food is made disagreeable by the mother's unwise efforts to force it. Instead try the tactful ways to get necessary foods into the diet, or wait until the child is over some temporary distaste for them.

Divorce is No Cure For Folly of Youth

Girls Who Rush Into War Marriages With Men They Know Little About Are Due for Big Shock After War

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

One of our famous jurists predicts that after the war divorce will reach an all time high in this country. It does not take a learned juiker or even a crystal gazer to foretell that. Anyone with the slightest knowledge of human nature and a grain of common sense knows that thousands of the hurried up furlough marriages will not last as long as the uncle's insurance.

Undoubtedly a vast proportion of our young people do not regard marriage as a serious undertaking. They look upon it as an experiment, an adventure, something that they will try once, anyway, for the heck of the thing, but that they won't have to stick to it if it gets too tough. To them the marriage bond is not the tie that binds, but a slip knot that they can undo with their tongues if it begins to gall them.

MARRYING STRONGER

I get innumerable letters from war brides frankly stating their position on the marry-at-sight proposition. "All the girls are doing it," they say. "It is so romantic and thrilling marrying a man you simply don't know at all. Instead of a boy you have grown up with, and it is such fun rushing around buying trousseaux on a hurry. And a military wedding is exciting, with so many men in uniform, and cutting the wedding cake with a sword, and your husband going off almost before you get a second look at him.

"And all the girls who haven't got 'em are envious of your wedding ring. And you get your allotment, which helps out on your salary, and lets you buy the things you have never had the money for before. And then after the duration when your husband comes back, if you don't like his looks, you can get a divorce."

Divorce. Everybody is going to be divorced after the war.

And the boys who marry girls on a short acquaintance and without gathering to make any inquiries about their pasts or their presents, are equally certain that all they have to do is to ask for the divorce courts to correct their mistakes if they have guessed wrong about being in love with Sally or Susie, and it is really Mary or Jane they want.

BLIND FAITH IN DIVORCE

In reality, there is nothing in the world more tragic than the blind faith that the unhappily married put in divorce. They seem to think that it works a miracle that not only frees them from the husband or wife with whom they cannot get along, but that it will remove every carping care and make them radiantly happy. Women, in especial, are obsessed by the hallucination that even if they are middle-aged and have a houseful of children that a decree absolute will turn them back into being young and beautiful again and make them fascinating to men.

But the sordid truth is that while divorce may deliver a wife from a drunkard or a husband from a nagger it has no magic that wipes out the past. It reaches out into the future with its disillusion, its bitterness, its tears and regrets, its wrecked homes and its half-orphaned children. So it is a saddening thought that after the war divorce is going to reach its all high peak. What a pity that the cooling cannot realize that it is not a cure-all, nor even an escape from the folly of a rash marriage, and so refrain from adding the kind of marriages that are bound to end in divorce!

McCoy Health Service

Eczema is marked by inflammation of the skin and is caused by a fundamental toxemia. It is characterized by itching, burning, and the formation of various kinds of skin lesions. It is significant that the Greek word for eczema means "bubbling out" and when eczema is present, there is considerable reason to believe that poisons from within are actually bubbling out through the skin.

Any treatment directed to the irritated surfaces will not reach the real cause of the trouble and will produce only temporary relief. To permanently relieve this type of skin irritation, it is necessary to first remove the cause. The chief cause of eczema is a systemic disturbance, and by wrong habits of living such as over-eating, the over-consumption of sugar and starches, the use of inharmonious combinations of food, sluggish intestinal elimination, etc. The best treatment I have found is that treatment which will eliminate the toxins, and the most rapid way to accomplish this is to use the fast in some form.

Chronic eczema is the more common type and may be quite troublesome to the patient over a period of years. However, eczema may also occur in an acute form, marked by an acute inflammatory skin condition. Chronic eczema may be accompanied by skin blemishes of various kinds, including pimples, or papules; blisters or vesicles; and elevations topped with pus, called pustules. The patches may spread, or the old ones may dry up as new ones break out. In some forms there is considerable oozing of a sticky fluid, which, when dried on linen, produces stiffening of the fabric. This type is referred to as "weeping" eczema and as it clears up, crusts may form. In another type referred to as "dry" eczema, there is no fluid and dry scales rather than crusts.

A severe case of eczema will induce intense itching and the patient may be tempted to scratch vigorously. Eczema may also be accompanied by a burning, stinging, smarting sensation, redness, and perhaps thickening or hardening of the skin. In some cases, in which the irritation is most marked upon the hands, deep cracks or fissures may form which are slow to heal.

Eczema is found at every age and both infants and elderly patients are not exempt. This disorder is not contagious and if one member of the family develops it, the others are not thereby endangered.

Eczema usually clears up without difficulty when a fasting and dieting treatment is used. The patient should take a five-day fast on fruit juice, and is advised to drink plenty of water in between the fruit juice feedings. A local treatment which is beneficial, is that given over the affected area with the ultra-violet ray light. The ultra-violet ray treatment is particularly good in chronic cases and the skin should be exposed for a sufficient length of time to produce a gentle-off process which will bring out the fresh, clear skin from underneath.

In cleansing the skin, it may be advisable to try cleansing the affected area with sterile cotton dipped in olive oil, if the use of soap and water serves to increase the irritation.

Psoriasis is similar to eczema in that it is produced by a chronic poisoning within the body. It is well-known that psoriasis is difficult to eradicate successfully by ordinary external treatment. Most physicians admit that treatment which appears to be effective at one time may fail at another, even in the same patient. No external remedies have been found which can be depended upon to obtain satisfactory results in all cases at all times.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large stamped self addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Minute Make-Ups

It is clever to buy linen play shoes and dye them in colors to match evening dresses. Big jars of cream save time and money. Beating up your face creams to a froth make them "lighter" and last longer. A tablespoonful of cooking oil, beaten into half a pound of cream, gives it a real "beauty texture."

a finesse to be taken in three suits, and all of them are wrong. Despite this, declarer can make four spade tricks, a heart, two diamonds and three clubs—ten tricks, but she must be careful to play the hand to get all of them.

When West continues a heart, declarer must go up with the king in dummy, lead a small diamond to the king, cash the ace and king of spades as a safety play, then lead a small club. She does not finesse but goes right up with the ace of clubs, and discards her losing heart on the ace of diamonds. Now declarer can lose only one heart, one club and one spade.

Post-War Aviation Is Theme of Talk

W. Leigh Brintnell, president of Aircraft Repair Ltd., was guest speaker at the Kinsmen club meeting at the Macdonald Friday evening.

Speaking on "Post-War Aviation," he reviewed the history and growth of Canadian air power and said that the aviation industry as a whole is thinking entirely of large passenger and cargo aircraft for global air travel in the post-war world.

He said it will be necessary to devote much thought to the design and construction of this type of aircraft because its operation all over the world will set an natural feeder lines of the global air routes.

"The new type air freighters will materially help to solve the economic problems of the bigger and better world for which the United Nations are fighting," he declared.

Mr. Brintnell was introduced by Arnie Johannson. C. A. Venn, the president, was in the chair.

Business of the meeting included the election by acclamation of Tom Shankel as editor of the club bulletin to replace Jim Allard, who has left for a position in Ottawa.

A resolution limiting Kinsmen membership to 85 was passed unanimously.

TWICE DECORATED

LONDON.—(CP)—Capt. (acting major) Earl Jellicoe, 25, Coldstream Guards, and son of the late Admiral of the Fleet Earl Jellicoe, has been awarded the M.C., in recognition of his gallant and distinguished services in the field." He won the D.S.O. in Egypt in 1942.

City Junior Hospital League Ministers to Polio Patients

"Angels of Mercy" are what hundreds of Alberta kiddies call the Edmonton Junior Hospital League, which for the past 16 years has ministered to the needs and wants of young poliomyelitis sufferers who come to the Edmonton University hospital for treatment.

Faced with months and sometimes years of confinement in a hospital bed, youngsters stricken with the once dreaded infantile paralysis have come to rely on league members for personal ministrations they miss when taken from their homes.

Organized in 1928, the League amalgamated with the Duke of York Chapter, I.O.D.E., Mrs. Jack S. Charlesworth told a reporter Friday afternoon.

Aims of the organization are to foster among its members an interest in social, economic, educational, cultural and civic pursuances of the community and to make effective their volunteer services.

WORK OF LEAGUE

The work of the league is in connection with the provincial special unit of the University hospital to raise money for equipment for the treatment of infantile paralysis patients. Part of the payment of a full time teacher, who gives academic courses and teaches occupational therapy, which assists in the rehabilitation of patients, is raised by the members. In this connection the patients assist in their handicraft after they return to their homes and the teacher sells it for them.

The teacher, Mrs. Alice M. Smith, also assists the children's studies after they return home and prepares them for departmental examinations, which the children pass with high standing.

The league supplies the patients with clothing, gives them a Christmas party, and treats at other festive seasons.

SWIMMING POOL

At a cost of $1,521 the League had installed a therapuitic swimming pool at the hospital, the second of its kind at the time 1934, in Canada. Later a lift or hoist for the pool to put the children in for treatment was installed.

Two solarium lamps at a cost of $300 each were given to the hospital as were two humidifiers for each wing at a cost of $350 each. Other smaller equipment includes scales, trays, push carts for books and small lamps.

Money for all these gifts was raised by an annual dog show, a fashion play, cabarets, concerts with well known artists, the "March of Dimes," rummage sales, serving tea at Thompson and Dynes' semi-annual fashion shows, and raffles.

At present the women are making articles, specializing in children's clothing, for a bazaar to be held in the Empire room of the Hudson's Bay Company store, on November 4.

Besides the chief work of aiding the hospital, members assist in city welfare work. Needy mothers are supplied with layettes through the outdoor clinic of the University hospital. The need for the layettes at the clinic is not so urgent at present as they are given to the Red Cross Society and are sent to expectant mothers in Great Britain and in Canada.

The League has a representative on the Council of Social Agencies, members assisted the Creche with donations and had a representation on the Creche board.

The members have furnished a rest room at the Blood Donor Clinic. At each clinic four members are on duty. The League are in charge of the kitchen in the canteen at the clinic supplying food to donors.

AT BLOOD CLINIC

Two members of the League are on duty at the clinic all the time—one as a nurse and one in clinical work. The organization supplies girls as hostesses for the Navy, Army and Wings Club, one week-end a month. The group has a representative on the Red Cross Society Council.

Red Cross groups within the League knit for war refugees and the Merchant Marine. They assist with Tag Days for the Creche, Red Cross, and Navy League. Twenty of the women keep track of prices for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

The sum of $300 was donated for permanent equipment for the Edmonton Garrison Entertainment Board. The League has invested $400 in War Savings Certificates.

Through a Tag Day, $881 was raised and sent to the Great Ormand Street Hospital, London, Eng., the largest children's hospital in the world, which was bombed in 1941. Cash donations were made to the Salvation Army and the Merchant Marine.

Money from Bread and Butter teas was raised for the Queen's Canadian Fund, and members raffle a War Savings Certificate at each meeting.

All this work is carried on by a small band of 60 women having for their president, Mrs. Frank Gathercole.

LEAGUE WORKER

Mrs. Jack S. Charlesworth is an energetic member of the Edmonton Junior Hospital League, which supplies equipment for the University hospital special unit for the treatment of children stricken with infantile paralysis. At present the League is working for a bazaar to be held in November.

Girl Assists With Lighthouse

FORT WILLIAM April 15.—(CP)—Young Joyce Hyatt, 18, thinks the best way to keep in trim is to climb 146 steps to inspect a lighthouse tower several times daily. She is the first woman assistant lighthouse keeper on Lake Superior and possibly Canada.

During winter she lives at Cloud Bay, Ont., but for the last 10 years has spent the summer on Trowbridge Island, near Fort William, with her mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. E. Climms Merritt. Now, because of the war-imposed manpower shortage she has been named assistant to her father. She works the day shift.

SCORCHING WEATHER

One of the most trying jobs, she said today, is watching the weather. Lightning is one of the chief hazards and she recalled the bolt that struck the tower in 1940, three minutes after she had left it. Merritt was seriously injured.

Last year spiders made life miserable on the island. "They were everywhere and you never knew when one was going to drop on you."

But the birds help make life interesting. "They flash in and out of the lighthouse beams like silver darts."

For the first two or three weeks lighkeepers and their families miss contact with the mainland but "this wears off," she said.

Aid of Groups In Mosquito Drive Sought

Community leagues and other organizations interested in the abatement of the mosquito nuisance will be asked to co-operate with the city in a campaign that is being planned for 1944.

Announcement was made Saturday by Mayor John W. Fry that he would call a meeting of community league officials, and other organizations interested to explore the possibilities of co-operative effort to abate the nuisance. This meeting will be held probably at the beginning of next week.

In the meantime the mayor and city commissioners are studying a report submitted by J. D. A. Macdonald, assistant city engineer, following a visit to Winnipeg where the abatement campaign in that city was discussed with civic officials. They are studying also recommendations made by A. W. Haddow, city engineer, relative to a limited campaign to be undertaken this year.

Mr. Haddow has recommended that $10,000 be set aside this year for the purchase and assembly of equipment for the campaign, and that possibly a small amount of drainage work could be carried out this year.

He suggested also that legislation should be asked for that would permit carrying out of the campaign within a radius of 15 miles of the city. This legislation would govern the right of entry to property where breeding grounds are located.

In his report on inquiries made at Winnipeg, Mr. Macdonald said that the campaign to be effective must be thoroughly done, and added that the most satisfactory results had been obtained only by the expenditure of $18,000 during one year in Winnipeg.

CAMPAIGN JUSTIFIED

The Winnipeg officials stated, according to the report, that the campaign, although it did not eliminate the mosquito, was justified because the campaign reduced the nuisance considerably.

The Winnipeg campaign, according to Mr. Macdonald, largely amounts to applying oil to standing water anywhere from five to eight or nine times during the season.

The first problem is to ascertain the location of the breeding grounds. To do this a field survey must start about April 15, and the first oiling of the breeding grounds must be made by the end of the first week in May and must be completed within 10 days.

The co-operation of the public in eliminating all possible places for mosquitoes to develop around their premises would materially assist in the abatement of the nuisance, Mr. Macdonald points out.

To carry out control in Edmonton a start should be made immediately, as it would require a large field force to carry on the survey of all breeding grounds before May 1, and labor is not available. It would appear that the campaign cannot be carried on this year, Mr. Macdonald stated in his report.

NO EQUIPMENT

He states also that it would be impossible to obtain the necessary sprayers, rubber boots and slickers necessary for the work. There would be no difficulty in obtaining the oil, he states.

Mayor Fry after discussing the matter with Mr. Haddow and Mr. Macdonald was of the opinion that a limited campaign could be carried on within the city limits this year

Reports Increase In Scarlet Fever

Increase in the number of scarlet fever cases in Edmonton reported during March is parallel to an increase in this disease across the whole of the Dominion, Dr. G. M. Little, medical officer of health, stated in his report Friday to the local board of health.

Facilities at the isolation hospital have been unable to accommodate all cases requiring admission from the city, and no outside cases have been accepted. One-fifth of the scarlet fever cases reported during March were persons 20 years old or over.

He reported also on a conference with city officials and representatives of the Stony Plain municipal district relative to health services for that section of the municipality immediately west of the city.

Dr. Little reported that to "provide health services to this area during ordinary times would present no difficulty to this board, but at the present time when it is impossible to obtain additional trained personnel, such an extension of duties could only be met by reduction of service to our city itself."

If the co-operation of the community leagues and other organizations was forthcoming.

Juvenile Crime Takes Upswing During March

Complaints against juveniles, which subsided during the month previous, took an upward swing in March, according to the monthly police report issued Saturday by Chief Constable Reginald Jennings. The March figures were given as 253 complaints, as against 248 in February. Nine juveniles were placed under arrest.

Theft charges numbered 20, while counts of breaking and entering or shopbreaking totalled seven. City detectives investigated 253 cases during March, a slight increase over the preceding month, when 248 complaints were looked into. There were 135 arrests made, 23 more than were made during February.

THEFTS HEAD LIST

Charges of theft led the list, with a total of 94. There were 11 cases of assault investigated, and two cases of theft of auto.

Loot and stolen property amounted to $5,218. Of this amount, $4,146 worth of such property was recovered by the department.

Thirty-three arrests were made during the month by the morality squad, 21 less than during the month of February.

City police traffic department responded to 541 calls in police cars, slightly lower than the number made during February. Traffic accidents also were down, with 80 in March and 85 in February.

For the third consecutive month the number of persons injured in traffic accidents has remained the same—with 14 injured. The first traffic death in that period occurred in March.

TRAFFIC OFFENSES

Tags were distributed to 427 autofists, 31 cyclists and 34 jay-walkers. The latter has been rising steadily each month, it was stated. Jay-walkers are penalized to the extent of 50 cents for failure to observe traffic laws.

Edmonton sold a horse through its pound-keeper during March. The animal, a stray, was turned over to the department. When no one claimed it, it was sold.

Only two dogs, out of 75, were redeemed, the balance, together with 71 cats, were destroyed.

The report of the chief provincial coroner showed that four persons came to their death by accident, one by suicide, four from natural causes. Three inquests were held during the month.

Toronto Man Fined $2,500 For Export Of Furs to States

TORONTO, April 15.—(CP)—David Berenvit of Montreal Friday was fined $2,500 or one year in jail, when he pleaded guilty before Magistrate R. J. Browne to a charge of aiding and abetting in the export of furs to the United States, without a licence, contrary to Foreign Exchange Control Board regulations. The fine was paid.

Unloading Hogs Is Continuing At Stockyards

In spite of an accumulation of 3,500 hogs at Edmonton stockyards Friday morning, and the serious congestion at all city packing plants, caused by an unprecedented influx of hogs, shipments were still being unloaded Saturday morning, according to stockyard officials.

The congestion at the yards is serious, as most local packing plants have closed their gates and will not accept more shipments till they can handle large numbers of hogs already on hand. However, up to the present the yards have been able to handle shipments and officials state they expect most of Friday's accumulation will be shipped out soon. Farmers are being asked to co-operate by holding their hogs until contacting plants to determine whether their hogs can be accepted.

The heavy influx of hogs started early this week and increased daily until most city packing plants were forced to close their gates. All plants still have large numbers of hogs on hand but expect to be able to catch up within the next few days.

A possibility that agricultural workers employed at the plants, who are due to return to the farms by April 15, will be allowed to continue working till May 1, was indicated by local employment officials Friday.

The labor shortage in plants is so serious that 700 additional workers are needed to handle the rush. Employment officers are making every effort to supply the workers needed and Friday they announced that all men applying at the local employment office for work were being referred to packing plants because of the emergent situation.

Airman Returns From Overseas

LAC. A. L. Knight, R.C.A.F. radar mechanic, who has remustered to aircrew, arrived in Edmonton from overseas Friday.

"It's certainly good to see Canada again and a wonderful feeling to be home," he said.

LAC. Knight was stationed with an operational squadron of R.A.F. heavy bombers and his job was to install, repair and look after the maintenance of radar equipment in the big aircraft. "The work is really interesting and then we did get a bit of excitement around the station, occasionally," he said.

He was the only Edmonton man on his squadron but went overseas in July of last year with George Miles, former provincial boys' work secretary, and George MacIntosh, both of this city.

Mrs. Grace Knight, mother of the airman, together with his wife, both reside in the city.

McDOUGALL
By Reva Taradash

One of the best "Lits" of the year was witnessed by the students of Commercial, Friday. The drama club deserves hearty praise for its untiring work in directing this event. A quartet consisting of four Commercial boys, John Boer, Fred Cramer, Fred Mason and Lloyd Mortimer, highlighted the program with a comic action song. Dot McMillan sang the immortal "Ave Maria" while Lorraine Macdonald also sang a solo, "When April Sings." The finale was a most colorful sight when the members of the drama club and the performers all sang "Buckle Down Commercial".

The graduating class has chosen its committee. It consists of Pat Feather, president; Dot Cheldelborough, Doris Browning and Gwen Allen.

Westglen was well represented in the boxing and wrestling bouts which were held in the Westglen gymnasium Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday of this week. Ken McLeod, Jim Cowley, Murdo Munro and Alex Romaniuk boxed and Jerome Saumers, Eric MacDonald, and Rosa Cawley wrestled. Outstanding was Eric MacDonald, who established a record by throwing his opponent three times in one and one-half minutes. Alex Romaniuk also did well the first night by defeating his contestant.

Although they lost to Barnwell, our senior basketball team returned from southern Alberta with a high regard for Barnwell high school as both opponents and hosts and with a happy recollection of a very pleasant and worthwhile experience.

Parents' night "Lit" on Friday proved to be highly successful with many of the parents attending the special program put on by the students. The program included a play, tumbling demonstration, basketball skill displayed by the girls' team, orchestra selections and singing, dancing and the Sailor's Hornpipe dance. E. E. Ilyde, principal of the school, gave an address on "The Need for an Education."

During the last few weeks several new students started school at Eastwood. At a meeting of the publications staff last Wednesday it was decided that the next issue of the paper would be published on May 17.

Special mention must go to the Baptist Young People's groups, St. Barbara's Russian Greek Orthodox Association, Trinity Lutheran and McDougall United Y.P. APRIL SHOWERS

(To be colored with paints or crayons. Whenever you come to a word spelled in CAPITAL letters use that color.)

Susie May and Teddy are out in the rain. But both are happy. You can see that, for they have smiles on their ROSY (light RED) faces. Teddy carries a big BLUE umbrella with a YELLOW handle. There is a BLUE ring at the end of the handle to hold on to.

Susie May wears a RED hat on her YELLOW hair, and she has on a little YELLOW dress with a wide white collar. Her tie is BLACK like the spokes of the umbrella.

Teddy's hat is light BLUE (add water to the BLUE or use crayon lightly). So is his suit. His collar and cuffs are white, but his tie is RED. Teddy's hair is BROWN.

The street they are crossing is a GRAY-YELLOW (use a little BLACK and mix a bit of YELLOW and just a touch of RED). There is a strip of GREEN grass, then the pavement. The pavement is RED brick and little Jane is rolling her Teddy Bear in her doll coach. Her umbrella is RED. The YELLOW coach has a GREEN shade and Teddy Bear is BROWN like Sister Peggy's umbrella. Peggy has a GREEN raincape on and a YELLOW basket over her arm. Her cap is lined with RED and her dress is BLUE.

Jane's coat is TAN (use BROWN with YELLOW mixed). You can see her RED checked dress sticking out from under her coat. Her socks have RED checks at the tops. Peggy's socks have BLUE and GREEN around their tops. Her umbrella has a long YELLOW handle. Jane's hair is RED (use YELLOW and RED), and her cheeks are very PINK (use RED lightly).

Jane is just passing Teddy's house. It is a YELLOW house with GREEN shutters, and there are RED Lady Washington flowers with GREEN leaves in the window. Peggy has just come down the CREAM color (use light YELLOW) steps of her house. There is a GRAY stone pillar with a CREAM color post on top, and the house is light GREEN with CREAM color woodwork.

Jane's rubbers are TAN and Peggy's are BROWN. The tree in the foreground is GRAY with little GREEN shoots on its branches.

There is a GRAY border (light BLACK) to this picture, and the lettering is light GREEN, for it is April, and raining.

7 In Memoriam

In Loving Memory of Husband and Father, Daniel Powers, who passed away April 16, 1942.

Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days.
Sincere and kind in heart and mind,
What a beautiful memory he left behind.

—Ever remembered by his loving Wife and Family.

In Memory of Samuel Rawson, who passed away April 15, 1937.

We do not forget him, we love him too dearly,
For his memory to fade from our lives like a dream,
Our hearts are not made of stone,
Our hearts enough sincerely,
For grief often dwells where it seldom is seen.

—Ever remembered by his loving Wife and Family.

Wheat, Oil, Coal and Ore Borne to War over Canada's Great Lakes Waterways
Towering Locks of World's Busiest Canals Control U.S.-Canadian Lifeline

During seven months of open season the Great Lakes Waterways are alive with ships, linking East and West, the U.S. and Canada and an industrial empire with the war effort of the United Nations. The Blue Water international bridge, between Sarnia and Port Huron, here casts its shadow on a passing freighter.

To reach the open sea this busy inland traffic is dependent on the Sault Ste. Marie and Welland Canals, busiest and second busiest canals, respectively, in the world. Here the mighty Lemoyne, Queen of Great Lakes, passes lock of Welland Canal which bridges a 327-foot rise between Lake Ontario and Lake Erie.

To the world's greatest grain shipping area at Fort William and Port Arthur is funneled the vast production of Western Canada. Two grain boats load up at Port Arthur elevators. This year more hands are needed to do the job.

From the Mesabe and Vermillion ranges rust-red ore is freighted to steel mills in Canada. Here the SS Goderich unloads iron ore from Duluth into maws of giant Algoma Steel blast furnaces, among largest in the Empire.

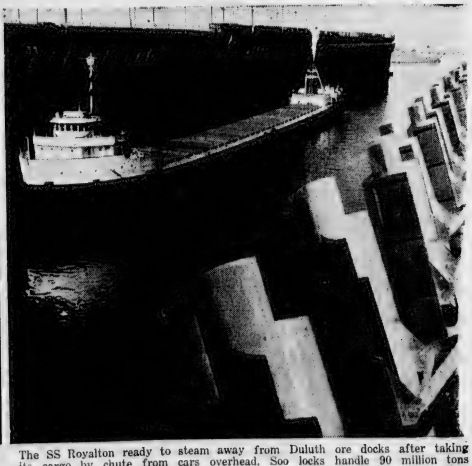

Not only men serve on Great Lakes. Seamen's Union counts 250 women. Isobel Dillabough, Renfrew, Ont., shipped aboard the SS Soodock in 1943 as a porter.

A call at a Great Lakes port brings welcome rest to fireman Roger Houke, of Lachine, Que., who fires aboard SS City of Montreal. Art in Houke's bunk shows taste in pin-up girls. These men are doing vital wartime job.

Essential links in the Great Lakes Waterways, canals are patrolled by Canadian and U.S. security guards. Picture shows guard on duty on Welland Canal lock.

The SS Royalton ready to steam away from Duluth ore docks after taking its cargo by chute from cars overhead. Soo locks handle 90 million tons of ore annually. Coal and oil are other cargo filling great wartime need.

Oats Supported On Chicago Mart

CHICAGO, April 15.—(AP)—Oats found support in the grain market today as rain in the midwest further delayed seeding of the new crop. Other cereals, however, generally worked lower with July wheat meeting selling by a commission house with southwestern connections. Price changes were small.

Advices to grain houses said moisture over the grain belt had retarded seeding of oats from one to two weeks in some sections. While the delay was not considered serious at present, some analysts felt that, if clear weather is not forthcoming shortly, estimates of the acreage seeded to oats will have to be revised downward.

At the close wheat was unchanged to ½ lower, July $1.69⅜; oats were ⅛ lower to ⅜ higher, July 78½; rye was unchanged to ¾ lower, May $1.29¼-⅜; and barley was unchanged to ⅛ lower, July $1.24½.

Wheat Close—May 1.73⅜; July 1.69⅜; Sept. 1.66⅝; Dec. 1.66⅝.

Two in Hospital Following Fracas

TORONTO, April 15.—(CP)—Toronto police last night said a charge of wounding and attempted suicide has been laid against Nick Buduk, 30, of Vancouver, who earlier was rushed to hospital with serious abdominal wounds suffered, police said, during a fight which followed a drinking party in a Yonge street hotel.

Also in hospital with serious abdominal wounds is Anna Kindre, 22, of Regina.

The woman's wounds were said to be the more dangerous and her condition was termed "critical" by hospital attendants. An emergency operation was performed when she was admitted.

She was found lying in a washroom along a hallway from the room where she had been living. Buduk was lying on a couch. On the floor of the room, police said, was a blood-stained penknife. Both were wounded in the abdomen.

Other persons believed to have attended the party were being questioned, officers said.

Flying Officer C. Tibert has been appointed chairman of the Sixth Victory Loan committee of No. 2 Wing (Northwest Staging Route) of Western Air Command, R.C.A.F.

Report Outlines West Activities Of Imperial Oil

Increased operations in Western Canada in 1943 are reported by Imperial Oil Limited. A new plant, the first of its kind in Canada was constructed at Calgary, new units added to the refinery at Regina, increased production obtained from the company's properties in the proven fields, and 17 exploratory wells drilled in Alberta, Saskatchewan and the North West Territories in continuing exploration activities.

Development of the Norman Wells pool was undertaken for the purpose of supplying the crude oil needs of the Allied Nations in that area, and G. Harrison Smith, president, states the company was successful in obtaining ample oil to meet existing requirements. In this field the company drilled 12 wells, 11 of which were productive and one a dry hole. In Turner Valley Imperial and subsidiaries had a participating interest in 12 crude oil producing wells completed during 1943, and at the end of that year had a participating interest in 89 limestone crude oil producing wells and 83 shallow crude oil and gas wells in the valley. In addition to the development of the proven properties in these fields, Imperial continued its extensive exploration activities in Canada, along with its subsidiaries drilling 17 unsuccessful exploratory wells, 11 of which were in Alberta, two in Saskatchewan and four in the North West Territories.

PRODUCTION INCREASE

Total production of crude oil, separator naphtha and absorption plant product by the company and subsidiaries of 3,135,977 barrels was an increase from 2,810,102 barrels for 1942. This production was obtained mainly from Turner Valley and Norman Wells fields. In addition to this production the company in the year purchased 4,233,125 barrels of Canadian production.

The new plant at Calgary was brought into operation early in 1943 and is now producing aviation alkylate of high octane blending value to make large supplies of the product available for war requirements of aviation gasoline. The new units at Regina were brought into successful operation in the first half of 1943 to contribute further to the supply of aviation gasoline.

HIGHEST ON RECORD

In Eastern Canada the company's operations were expanded to meet the increasing demands for petroleum products for war and essential purposes. Crude oil processed through Imperial refineries and the volume of products sold in 1943 are officially reported to have been the highest on record. New products were developed and greatly increased requirements for the battle zones and for the home front of Canada at war were produced and delivered without delay, G. Harrison Smith, president, states. This solution of research and engineering problems and the knowledge gained by this rapid tempo of developments under war experience have not only been an important contribution to the necessities of war but will result in further improved products and services in the coming days of peace, he states.

The synthetic rubber plants, adjoining the Imperial refinery at Sarnia and financed and constructed by Polymer Corporation Limited, Crown company, are in operation. During 1943, St. Clair Processing Corporation Limited, wholly owned subsidiary of Imperial Oil, was actively engaged in the training of personnel to operate the major part of this development, and Imperial will sell to Polymer certain selected petroleum gases representing the greater portion of the Buna S and Butyl synthetic rubber content.

Net profit of $15,548,873 for 1943 from Canadian and foreign operations was equal to 57.66c per share and was after provision for Canadian taxes amounting to $10,389,484 on earnings. Of the year's net, $9,362,369, or 34.72c a share, represented earnings from Canadian refining and marketing, transportation, and Canadian production (exclusive of Canadian producing subsidiaries). The balance of $6,186,504, equal to 22.94c a share, was from dividends received from subsidiaries, including subsidiaries operating outside the Dominion. The 1943 net was after provision of $5,540,270 for depreciation and $1,543,809 for future shrinkage of inventory values from present abnormally high costs caused by war conditions. Net profit from all operations for 1942 of $14,663,097 was equal to 54.38c per share, and was after deduction of $9,518,349 for Canadian taxes on earnings, $4,868,076 for depreciation and $626,170 for inventory reserve.

POSITION IMPROVED

Sound liquid position of former years was improved during the year, with net working capital of $69,604,722 at December 31, 1943, an increase from $60,583,509 at December 31, 1942. Current assets included cash of $22,991,828, up from $13,173,147 the year before, and Dominion of Canada and other bonds amounting to $7,284,369, compared with $5,276,869.

Total production of Imperial Oil's subsidiaries in South America, including the interest in Mene Grande's production in Venezuela, was 28,912,657 barrels compared with 25,994,378 barrels for 1942. The potential output of the producing properties was maintained, the annual report states.

Montreal & Toronto

MONTREAL, April 15.—(CP)—Tendencies were steady to irregular in light trading today on the stock exchange and curb market. Montreal Power, whose electric and gas units have been expropriated by the Quebec government, lost a minor fraction and the company's subsidiary, Southmount, was also easier.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)—Stock market buyers picked up scattered steels, motors and specialties in today's session but left many leaders to struggle in slightly lower ground. Turnover of around 250,000 shares was among the smallest since early last October.

EDMONTON LIVESTOCK

Weekly report from the Edmonton stockyards for the week ending April 14, 1944

Receipts.	Cattle	Calves	Hogs	Sheep
Today	242	64	861	10
Week	[illegible]	267	2145	220

The cattle market started off the week with a fairly brisk demand for good to choice quality butchers. However, due to an exceptionally heavy run of hogs at the packing plants, the enthusiasm dropped off sharply, and by the close of the week trading was practically at a standstill. Packers have been handicapped, due to a shortage of labor, and as hogs have a priority over cattle slaughtering, every effort has been made to dispose of the hogs. Prices held fairly steady with the previous week's quotations, with better grades opening, if anything, a shade stronger. Any gains made, however, were more or less lost when trading slowed down. It is expected that a fairly large carry-over will result. Farmers will be well advised to refrain from shipping for a few days until the congestion is over.

The following are the quotations:

CATTLE—

Good-choice fed calves	$11.00	to	11.50
Good-choice h'y steers	11.00	to	11.75
Fair-medium steers	9.50	to	10.50
Common to fair steers	7.00	to	9.50
Good-choice heifers	10.00	to	11.00
Fair-medium heifers	8.25	to	9.50
Common-fair heifers	6.50	to	8.25
Good-choice light cows	8.00	to	8.50
Good-choice heavy cows	7.50	to	8.00
Fair-medium cows	6.00	to	7.00
Common to fair cows	4.50	to	6.00
Canners and cutters	3.50	to	4.50
Bulls	5.00	to	7.50

Stockers and feeders were also under limited demand. A few choice feeders topped at $10, with the bulk of the better class steers $9.50 down, and heifers $8 and stock cows $6 down.

Veal calves closed at $13 for tops, and were off 50c per cwt. for the forepart. The bulk of the good to choice handy weights ranged from $12 to $13.50. Heavy and common kinds traded from $11.50 down to a low of $7.

The new basis of settlement came into effect Monday, April 10, and the price quotations on the basis of actual value per cwt. for each grade were enforced. The prices for each grade were as follows, and remained steady throughout the week: A's, $16.35; B1, $15.95; B2, $15.70; B3, $15.70; C's, $14.70; D's, $14.45; lights, $14.45; heavies, $14.45; extra heavies (196-215 lbs), $13.45; extra heavies (216 lbs. and up), $11.25; sows and ridglings, dressed, $11.25; sows, live weight, declined to close at $8.50 per cwt.; feeders, according to weight and quality, $12 to $14 per cwt.

Lambs steady, good to choice locals, $11 to $11.50; tops, off cars, $11.75; yearlings, $6 down, and ewes $5 down.

Lower Selling Prices Is Aim Of Industry

MONTREAL, April 15—Geo. W. Huggett, president and managing director, told shareholders of Canadian Industries, Limited, at their annual meeting here Thursday, that "Industry's first and greatest responsibility is to obtain the highest degree of efficiency in production, distribution and administration, in order to achieve lower selling prices, thereby broadening markets and expanding output and employment.

"In all our minds today, however, one thought should be uppermost," Mr. Huggett declared. "War, with all its horrors, is still raging throughout the world. Surely in the fifth year of the struggle—with probably another year and possibly longer, before the end is in sight—the fact that we in this country have succeeded in producing the tools needed by the fighting forces is no reason for relaxing our efforts. To have done less would have been to have failed most miserably in our duty."

DOWNWARD REVISION

Mr. Huggett said that total output of Defence Industries Limited, wartime subsidiary of C.I.L., reached a peak early in 1943, but downward revisions were necessary because of the ability of plants and workers to exceed original production estimates, combined with changed military requirements. He stressed, however, that the greatest urgency still exists for many of the war materials produced by C.I.L., and a high level of production is being sustained.

Sales of Canadian Industries Limited, for 1943, were up four per cent over 1942, the president stated, and for the first quarter of 1944 sales were ten per cent higher than for the same period last year.

"A further responsibility of industry," he said, "is to aid by co-operative action with other groups, in the furtherance of social objectives and other changes needed for the operation of a modern industrial country. Important as is the role of industry, however, it is responsible for only a portion of the policies that must be pursued if the fullest use is to be made of the nation's human and material resources.

Sixth Victory Loan Campaign Opens April 24

and the various units will be given credit for subscriptions from individuals within their units only.

The public will be asked to purchase on the two-way plan through monthly savings and from accumulated cash.

Mr. Osborne pointed out that savings accounts in banks are now at an all time high and that previous loans had made very little impression on savings totals. The higher interest paid on Victory Bonds, starting from the very day the bonds are purchased, and the increased market prices on previous loans, will be important factors in conversion from Savings Accounts to the Sixth Victory Loan Bonds.

"It is felt also that the more pressing needs of our people generally following the passing of the 'tough thirties' have been largely met, insofar as goods have been available, and that the average family has now a much higher unallocated percentage of income than at any time since the war began," said Mr. Osborne. Many people will use the old instalment system but in reverse form; saving now month by month against the time when radios, refrigerators, automobiles, washing machines and home furnishings will be in mass production again at lower costs. Paying cash then with accumulated savings made through purchase of Victory Bonds now, they will obtain the lowest prices and no carrying charges. And in the meantime this will help take the pressure off the price ceiling."

EXPRESSES CONFIDENCE

Mr. Osborne expressed the opinion that the unofficial objective should be reached comparatively easily in Alberta where increased incomes are as evident as in any part of the Dominion. "We are hoping that it will be a short, snappy campaign with everyone in gainful occupation taking part in this aspect of our huge war effort. We are aiming to reach our objective in two weeks, even though the books will not be closed until the end of the third week," he said.

Girl Is Injured in Highway Accident

Struck by an automobile when she was walking along the Calgary Highway, about two miles south of Ellerslie, 9-year-old Hilda Klapstein is in the Misericordia hospital suffering from a fractured leg and facial injuries.

The child was returning from school at 3:30 p.m. Friday to her home in Ellerslie. Two friends, Joan Prebus and Norman Warner, had just passed her on bicycles. She called out to them asking for a lift and apparently thinking they were stopping for her ran across the highway directly into the path of the car which struck her. Driver of the car was Mr. Deitzer of Leduc.

The injured girl was brought in to Edmonton to the hospital by Mr. F. Wolf of Leduc, who arrived at the scene shortly after the accident occurred.

Legion Chief Is Optimistic About Future

strong evidence that this will be the case.

"Men and women who have served in the fighting forces have a unique and common approach to all problems of the day, but it is not a narrow organizational approach.

LEGION KNOWS IT

"We of the Legion know full well that veterans can prosper only in a society in which all the people prosper. While our first bounden duty is to assist those of our comrades of the services, the long-range aims and objectives of the Canadian Legion must be directed as a Canada that has security and justice for all loyal citizens."

There's a meekness and natural humility about Harold Tanner that can be deceptive to those meeting him for the first time socially.

Small and scholarly in appearance, he is, nevertheless, a fighter who doesn't pull his punches when he's battling to uphold a principle in which he believes.

He was born at Tilsonburg, Ont., and received his early schooling there and in Stratford, Ont.

In 1913 he came west, entering the Normal school at Calgary where he qualified as a school teacher. His first school-teaching experience was obtained at Standard and Clyde, in Alberta.

JOINS 49th

In 1916 he enlisted in the Royal Army Medical Corps at Calgary. Going overseas he transferred to the 49th Bn. (Edmonton Regiment) C.E.F., in France.

He served through many of the bitter engagements fought by the Canadians during the summer of 1917, being in the Battle for Hill 70 and the long siege outside of Lens.

He also went through the great final battles of 1918, at Amiens, Canal Du Nord and Cambri. It was at Cambri that German shrapnel and machine gun bullets ended his career as a soldier of the line.

He was wounded in the arm and leg, and invalided back to England. He spent nine months in hospital.

Returning to Canada in 1919, he went to Stettler where he married Miss Georgie Lord of that district.

Later he attended Queen's University where he graduated with a B.A. and M.A. degrees That was in 1926. For a time he worked with the Dominion biological board doing experimental work in connection with fisheries at Halifax for two years.

Returning to Western Canada, he was principal of Wetaskiwin high school for a time and then came to Edmonton in 1928 where he joined the staff of Strathcona high school as science teacher.

He was on the Strathcona school staff for several years, having just recently transferred to the staff of the University high school in South Edmonton.

INTERESTED IN VETERANS

Mr. Tanner early took a keen interest in affairs of war veterans, having been the first president of the first branch of the Great War Veterans Association in Stettler in the early twenties. He continued to take an active part in the affairs of the G.W.V.A. for several years, until that body dissolved on the formation of the Canadian Legion of the B.E.S.L.

He re-entered Legion activities about four years ago and is now serving his third term as president of the Edmonton branch, one of the fastest growing in the Dominion.

Just how Harold Tanner finds time for all of his activities is a number one mystery.

Here's a list of the organizations in which he functions in addition to the Legion:

Soldiers' dependents advisory committee; Alberta government post-war reconstruction committee as member at large representing ex-service men and women; was original chairman of ex-servicemen's rehabilitation committee; Family Welfare Bureau; Canadian Corps Association; Veterans' Welfare Commission; 49th Bn. Association; vice-president of the Edmonton Chemical Club; past president of the Edmonton High School Teachers' Association; member of the Educational Club.

He is still interested in athletics and in his younger days played hockey and soccer. He attends Garneau United church. There are four girls in the family, two attending University and two in city schools.

Harold Tanner is the energetic leader of a great and growing branch of a great national organization.

Vote on Union Rights Again Is Stalemated

The vote at Canada Packers' Edmonton plant taken Friday to determine whether a C.I.O. or A. F. of L. union would have the bargaining rights for employees in the plant apparently ended in a stalemate as the C.I.O. affiliate did not receive a clear majority of all the employees affected.

The returning officers taking the vote announced that 320 ballots had been cast for the C.I.O. affiliate, and 226 for the A. F. of L. union, with eight voting for no union. There were 646 names on the voters' lists, 92 of whom did not exercise their franchise.

RESULT FOR OTTAWA

The result of the vote will be forwarded to the Dominion minister of labor, Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, by Fred E. Harrison, western labor representative of the Dominion department of labor. The vote was taken under the joint auspices of the Dominion and provincial labor departments.

This is the second stalemate that has occurred in the voting in this plant. Earlier in the year a vote was taken and the C.I.O. affiliate was successful in obtaining the greatest number of votes but did not obtain a clear majority of the employees affected. The provincial labor department ruled that the voting was abortive as there was not the clear majority required under the terms of the Alberta legislation.

The vote will be considered by the Dominion minister of labor, and it is possible that he will appoint a board to determine which union will have the bargaining rights.

Ample Food in U.K. When Invasion On

LONDON, April 15—(CP)—Food Minister Llewellyn said in an address yesterday that provision has been made to ensure when the second front opens civilians in Britain will continue in all circumstances to receive adequate food. Llewellyn added there might be local difficulties but these would not be serious and would not last long.

Treasury Bill Falls Due Today

Renewal has been requested by the provincial government on a treasury bill for $1,861,500 which fell due Saturday, it was stated here by Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer and minister of education.

Carrying interest at three per cent, the bill is held by the Dominion of Canada and has been renewed from year to year since the money was borrowed, for general revenue purposes, in the 1930-33 period.

The present bill is the third held by the Dominion to have fallen due this year. One for $4,500,000 came due on Jan. 15, and another for $4,678,000 on Feb. 1. Both these were renewed for a further period of one year. Word on the third is expected shortly.

EATON'S Own Brands Week

April 17 to 22

A store is known by the labels it keeps . . . and the lineage back of EATON'S labels tells a consistent story of "reliability and good value."

Why "Branded Lines"?

The question may be asked, "Why do you have branded lines?" EATON'S established its own branded lines for the benefit of the customer . . . to insure him better value, better assortment and style . . . and EATON'S maintains them for the same reason, the benefit of the customer.

The debut of the EATON policy of branded lines came about in 1910 with the registration of the "Eatonia" brand. Since that time dozens of branded lines have been established . . . and in nearly every department.

What "EATON'S Own Brands" Week Means to the Customer

By their name they shall be known . . . and EATON'S customers in many cases now ask for merchandise by its "branded" name without even requesting to see it, knowing well that its quality will be preserved on EATON'S own reputation.

So, to re-inform EATON'S customers of the significance and the range of branded lines . . . the EATON'S Own Brands Week is observed twice a year.
